Herter Flies To Paris For NATO Talks

Strategy Meetings Are Scheduled With Members Of Council

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter took off today for Western strategy talks in Paris. He declared there is need for further improvement of the defensive strength of the North Atlantic Alliance.

Traveling in a Military Air Transport jet liner, Herter, Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson and Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. left from Andrews Air Force Base.

Their big jet plane took off in a drizzling rain at 8:15 a.m. EST for an estimated seven hour flight to Paris.

They were accompanied by a party of top aides and policy advisers, including Foy D. Kohler, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, and Charles E. Bohlen, Herter's new special adviser on Soviet relations.

Herter, Anderson and Gates will represent the United States in a Cabinet-level meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Council in Paris beginning next Tuesday. Herter is expected to make a drive for greater contributions by the main European allies, particularly West Germany and France, to the military strength of NATO and Europe.

He has indicated he also will ask European leaders to study ways of relieving the United States of some of the financial burden it now bears in connection with the maintenance of its own forces in Wester Europe.

In his departure statement, Herter noted that on Dec. 18 he will go to Toulon, a French Mediterranean port, to meet President Eisenhower and return with him to Paris for a Western heads of government meeting. The conference will begin next Saturday and continue through the following Monday.

"While there appears to have been some easing of the atmosphere of crisis recently," Herter said, "the Soviet Union's willingness to take concrete action toward equitable settlements of major international problems remains to be demonstrated. Certainly nothing has happened to date to justify lowering our guard.

"The maintenance and further improvement of the defensive strength of the NATO alliance continues to be of the greatest importance."

Herter said the NATO council will discuss plans for the projected summit meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev next spring. The views developed in these discussions will be reported to Eisenhower, French President Charles de Gaulle, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain and German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer when they meet in the Western summit conference.

Rousing Success Appears Likely

New Eisenhower Doctrine May Emerge From Tour

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Less than three years ago the Eisenhower Doctrine boomeranged. Today it seems highly likely a new Eisenhower doctrine is emerging — and this one has every chance of being a rousing success.

The message brought by the American President to India plus the impact of his personality may prove in the long run a big help in mending U.S. fortunes in areas where they have been sagging.

The new Eisenhower doctrine is suggested in salient points of his pronouncements in India.

These are the U.S. stands for peace and genuine disarmament, determination to help friends against aggressors, need for people-to-people contacts, need for recognition of world law and, most important in this area, the need for a massive "noble" war against hunger.

Since the end of World War II Asians, Africans and Middle Easterners have exhibited a strong bond springing from common history, common woes and common problems.

The leaders of these areas underscored this four years ago in Indonesia where they created what they called the Spirit of Bandung in the city of that name.

At Bandung Red China was much in evidence, bidding for recognition as the acknowledged paramount Asian power. The same year — 1955 — the Communist bloc, led by the Soviet Union, used the Egyptian arms deal to vault into an Arab Middle East bitterly angry with the West.

The Eisenhower Doctrine was proclaimed after the Suez crisis as a warning to the Communists against armed intrusion in the Middle East. But the Arabs — just attacked by Britain, France and Israel — complained "We suffer from cholera and Dr. Eisenhower offers to treat us for measles."

Finally there was a dangerous Middle East blowoff sparked by the little Lebanese civil war in 1958, bringing U.S. troops to Lebanon and British troops to Jordan.

Many Arabs and Asians called that Western imperialism.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had all along been taking advantage of such a notion, coursing all over Asia, offering solicitude, arms and economic help to the Arabs, playing big brother to all colonial and ex-colonial peoples.

A change set in after Eisenhower accepted Khrushchev as a U.S. guest and Red China began belligerent gestures toward India. Now India has given Eisenhower an enormous welcome as a symbol of its hopes.

The unprecedented Eisenhower welcome in Asia indicates the Asians want to believe he stands for peace and that Asians still look toward the United States hopefully.

Cites Great Significance To Everyone

Says Cooperation, Freedom And Peace Holding Spotlight

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru today hailed President Eisenhower's 11-nation goodwill tour as a "pilgrimage of peace" carrying a worldwide impact.

The Prime Minister said he welcomed Eisenhower's visit "at this particular juncture of world events, Asian events and Indian events."

Nehru spoke at an impromptu news conference during an inspection of the sprawling press headquarters set up by the Indian government for coverage of the President's stay here.

"This visit is news for the entire world and it is right that its significance is recognized everywhere," Nehru said.

He told newsmen that the President's stay "is important news in view of this — if I may use the word — pilgrimage in quest of peace.

"While many things have been discussed and have happened here," he said, "everything has been in the cotext of peace, cooperation and freedom."

Nehru talked briefly with newsmen after sending a cable to telegraph offices in London and New York.

They had wired congratulations to the Indian government for the efficiency of special communications arrangements made for the President's visit.

"I am glad that the arrangements made here for transmission of messages covering President Eisenhower's memorable visit to India have been adequate and satisfactory," Nehru said in his cable.

Nehru and Eisenhower so far have held about three hours of private discussions in addition to contacts at public meetings, dinners and other events. They will meet several more times before the President leaves for Iran Monday.

Informed sources reported they have discussed a wide range of subjects including India's border quarrel with Red China. Nehru, they say, also has brought up the question of Washington's troubles in keeping Western allies, particularly West Germany and France, from rocking the Western boat in advance of the summit meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

In brief, Nehru considers problems throughout the world as part of one single great problem — that of preserving peace and easing tensions.

Battelle Director Selected For Bleininger Award

John D. Sullivan, technical director at the Battelle Memorial Institute in Columbus, has been named the 1960 recipient of the Albert Victor Bleininger Memorial Award for "distinguished achievement in ceramics."

His selection was announced at Friday's meeting of the Pittsburgh Section of the American Ceramic Society by Richard W. Ricker, chairman.

Sullivan is the 13th recipient of the highest honor conferred in this country for ceramic achievement. Last year's winner was Rome F. Geller of Bethesda, Md.

The gold medal and scroll symbolizing the honor will be presented to Sullivan at a dinner meeting of the section March 11 at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

Prior to joining Battelle in 1931, Sullivan was employed by the U. S. Bureau of Mines, holding positions as analyst at the Northwest experiment station from 1922 to 1923, assistant physical chemist at the Pacific experimental station from 1923 to 1927 and associate metallurgical chemist at the Southwest station.

Born in 1900, Sullivan received his bachelor of science degree in chemistry from the University of Washington in 1921, and a master of science degree in metallurgy and chemistry in 1922.

He also took graduate study in physical chemistry at the University of California and in mining administration at the University of Arizona.

He has been a member of the American Ceramic Society for many years and was elected a Fellow in 1939 and made an honorary member in 1959. He served as chairman of the committee on publications from 1936 to 1942 and again in 1944.

Sullivan was trustee representing the Refractories Division from 1940 to 1943 and served as national treasurer in 1944-45, national vice president in 1946 and national president in 1947.

Sullivan holds membership in the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, the American Foundrymen's Association, the American Society for Testing Materials, the Metallurical Division of the AIME and the Electro Chemical Society.

In 1952, Sullivan received the ASEM award of merit, and also was recipient of the first presidential award of the American Ceramic Society in 1957.

The award is conferred in memory of the late Dr. A. V. Bleininger, who served for many years as research director of the Homer Laughlin China Co.

Store Leveled By Blaze In Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A three-alarm fire early today destroyed the Humes Furniture Co. store in the heart of the downtown business district. No one was injured.

Owner Joseph Humes said the loss "may run close to a million dollars." He said the four-story brick and frame building and its contents were a complete loss.

Fire walls kept the flames from spreading to the adjoining Master Bar and the King's Jewelry Store, located on the other side of the furniture store, but both establishments were damaged by smoke and water.

Walter Stratos, co-owner of the bar, estimated damage there at $30,000. Damage at the jewelry store was estimated at $5,000.

Fire Chief John R. Lynch launched an investigation to determine the cause of the blaze. He said the flames were heaviest on the first floor when he arrived.

Stratos said he called the fire department after an employe in the kitchen of the bar saw flames shooting from the first floor of the furniture store.

Little Change In City Under Martial Law

ALBERT LEA, Minn. (AP)—The pattern of community life has altered little in this southern Minnesota city as the result of martial law imposed to prevent further violence in a meat packing plant strike.

Anyone expecting dramatic changes was disappointed. There haven't been any, aside from an obvious easing of tensions built up by striker-company friction.

Few National Guardsmen were to be seen around the city, population 18,000, except in restaurants at mealtime.

The Guardsmen took over quickly and efficiently while the city slept in the early morning hours Friday. Martial law was here when they awoke, in the persons of some 200 men.

The troops came at the order of Gov. Orville Freeman, who acted to avert further violence in a strike of some 1,000 United Packinghouse Union members against the city's biggest industry, the Wilson & Co. packing plant.

The governor moved swiftly after the second day of violent demonstrations against non union workers hired by Wilson.

Declaring martial law in the city and in Freeborn County, Freeman sent two companies of Guardsmen to Albert Lea. Immediately, the Wilson plant was closed and all pickets ordered off the premises.

All Of Treated Poultry To Be Taken By U.S.

To Pay Prices Based On Market Levels Prior To Dec. 10

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department will buy all stilbestrol-treated poultry from producers at prices based on market levels before Dec. 10.

That was the day Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming announced a voluntary withdrawal of these fowl from the market because stilbestrol had been found to cause cancer in test animals, and possibly in humans.

Less than 1 per cent of the nation's poultry have been treated with the hormone, and these are premium-priced birds called "caponettes." However, not all caponettes have had stilbestrol.

The Agriculture Department was asked Friday what it would do with the poultry it purchased. A spokesman replied "we will decide that later. Our obligation right now is to protect producers."

Officials said they had no idea how many treated fowl would be offered or what the total cost to the Agriculture Department would be.

Acting Secretary of Agriculture True D. Morse said "capons should not be confused with caponettes." "Capons" are surgically unsexed birds which have not been treated with stilbestrol. Caponettes were treated with it to give them similar characteristics."

Steel's Offer Turned Down In Secret Vote

CLEVELAND (AP)—The United Steelworkers Union took a secret test vote of 136 of its members at two Republic Steel Corp. departments and found the men unanimously rejected the steel industry's latest contract offer, the Cleveland Plain Dealer reported today.

The newspaper quoted a union official—not named—as saying:

"We haven't had a 'Yes' vote yet in favor of accepting the industry's proposal."

It was reported that another test vote will be taken Monday night at a meeting of the Republic Steel open hearth unit, which has about 800 members.

In Pittsburgh, a Steelworkers Union spokesman said there is no national policy of taking such test votes before the "last offer" voting conducted by the National Labor Relations Board under the Taft - Hartley 80-day cooling off injunction. The 116-day strike was halted by the injunction.

That vote is tentatively scheduled between Jan. 6 and 21.

Union officials conducting the poll here said all details of the industry's offer were "explained thoroughly" before the balloting.

"We ask them to vote the way they felt," a union official said. "Through these polls we expect to get a definite indication on which way the whole thing is going to swing in the NLRB election."

The industry has offered a three-year contract in a wage package that it says amounts to 30 cents hourly per man. The union contends the package comes to a little more than 22 cents hourly.

The youth was arrested at his home at 3:30 a. m. by Trumbull County authorities on a tip.

Charges are expected to be filed later today against the youth being held in the County Jail and other warrants are being issued for the other two, one a 30-year-old brother of the prisoner and the other a 38 - year - old convict released last month on parole after conviction on a charge of armed robbery.

Indian Diplomat Makes Prediction

New Chapter In World's History Seen In Ike Visit

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—President Eisenhower's spectacular visit to India led an Indian diplomat to predict today that it will open "a new chapter in world history."

M. C. Chagla, Indian ambassador to the United States, reported Prime Minister Nehru estimated the massive crowds that welcomed Eisenhower here Wednesday at 2½ million—three times the size of New Delhi's reception for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in 1955.

The 2½ million-figure is the biggest yet in estimates of the throngs which cheered, waved and crushed in upon the procession in which Eisenhower rode from the airport into New Delhi. Police had estimated 1½ million.

Eisenhower seized a chance today for his first real daylight rest since the beginning of his goodwill tour of three continents nine days ago.

With only two formal functions on his schedule, he relaxed at the russet-colored mansion of India's President Rajendra Prasad and caught up on White House business he is conducting 9,300 miles from Washington.

Eisenhower, who is bearing up well under the strain of his grueling trip, meets Nehru twice Sunday.

The two leaders are expected to issue a communique summing up their talks before the President leaves for Iran Monday.

Nehru told newsmen today Eisenhower's visit is "a pilgrimage in quest of peace" of special significance at this time in world events.

Chagla said he himself looks for no concrete results from the talks.

"Nobody expected that," he added. "But when two great men dedicated to world peace meet together this way they can do a great deal indeed to change the atmosphere.

When the atmosphere changes, it is then that concrete and specific results can be expected."

For Hospitals, Nursing Homes

'Gray Ladies, Gray Men' To Be Recruited In Drive

Mrs. Myer J. Alpern will head the local Red Cross Gray Ladies and Gray Men recruitment drive scheduled for mid - January, it was announced today by Mrs. J. Donald Thompson, chairman of volunteers.

Plans for enlisting at least 75 volunteers, both men and women, were formulated at a meeting this week attended by Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Robert Hays and Mrs. William Belaney, co - chairmen of Gray Ladies; Mrs. Alpern and Miss Mary Catherine Brady of Steubenville, Red Cross field representative.

The program, originally announced for women only, has been broadened to include men who wish to volunteer for personal service in the local hospitals and nursing homes.

Mrs. Thompson pointed out that the term "Gray Ladies" and "Gray Men" is derived from the gray dress or jacket worn as the official uniform and does not apply to the age of the volunteer. The service originated in 1918 at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington. Soldiers wishing to make use of Red Cross services would ask for the "Gray Lady". Gray Men came into existence in 1946.

Gray Ladies and Men are dedicated to the comfort and recovery of the sick, injured and handicapped. Changing trends in medicine have placed a heavy burden on the professional staffs of today's hospitals and the services of these volunteers free the staff for treatment procedures only they can carry out, Mrs. Thompson explained.

Volunteers perform such personal services as letter writing, reading aloud to patients, arranging flowers, shopping, teaching simple crafts if desired, bringing recreation to juvenile patients, serving as guides for visitors and encouraging the patients' special interests.

Mrs. Thompson emphasized that no bedside nursing is required and volunteers may elect the type of service they choose to perform.

This program does not require special talents of volunteers, but does call for sympathetic understanding, patience, tact, cheerfulness, sensitivity to the reactions of others and discretion, Mrs. Thompson said.

Requirements for enlisting in either the Gray Ladies or Gray Men are: volunteers must be at least 18 years of age, must supply a statement of their physician's approval, must accept a maximum training program of 12 hours plus 10 hours' probationary work and must be willing to give 50 hours of yearly service.

The local Red Cross chapter gives the first four hours of training, which are followed by six hours of instruction by trained nurses at the hospitals. A two-hour review session completes the course. Capping exercises and the presentation of pins will follow the probationary period.

Hospital training will include instruction in ethics, regulations and procedures of the institution, the relationship of Gray Ladies and Men to other volunteers serving and discussions of specific assignments.

The official uniform for this service will be the regulation gray cotton dress for women and a gray jacket for men.

Mrs. Thompson said interested persons may apply now at the Red Cross chapter office in the Mary Patterson Home or may contact Mrs. Hays, Mrs. Belaney or Mrs. Alpern. Personal interviews will be arranged after each application has been received.

Part Of 6-Year Survey

County Volunteers Finish Cancer Study's 1st Phase

Nearly 750 Columbiana County families are participating in a nationwide cancer prevention study which will continue for 6 years in an all-out drive to turn up data for researchers seeking the causes of cancer.

Eighty-one volunteer interviewers already have made the rounds in East Liverpool, Wellsville, East Palestine, Hanoverton, Leetonia, Lisbon and Salem, completing the first phase of the study of distributing questionnaires to the families.

The confidential data they will furnish on family and medical histories, environment and many other facets of their lives will be supplemented with additional information each year for the next six years.

Meanwhile, similar research work is under way in 22 other states. It all will be sent to the American Cancer Society to aid researchers, doctors and others in the statistical research section, who hope to be able to find the cause of cancer and work toward its prevention.

"We are gratified with the public co-operation extended to the 81 volunteers working on this health project," Mrs. Gertrude Reese, county co-ordinator of the study, commented today. "We have no doubt that the majority of these families will continue to supply us with vital information throughout the six-year period, as required for effective research."

"I am personally grateful for the effort and time devoted by each volunteer," Mrs. Reese added. "Without their interest such a project would be impossible."

The county study was undertaken by the Columbiana County Chapter of the American Cancer Society. The first phase was launched Nov. 1.

Named to represent the trustees were Harry Smith of the East volunteer department and Homer Cronin of the West department. John Conley has been elected by the East department as the firemen representative.

The West department has to elect a member and one independent member has to be named to complete the board.

Smith asked that a resuscitator manufactured by an Akron firm be considered by the trustees, who plan to purchase the equipment for the departments. The trustees accepted the bond of Robert Beaver, road foreman.

The real estate tax rate as presented by the Budget Commission at Lisbon was approved.

Chief Ed Emmerling of the West department was granted permission to install poles and equipment at a lot at Ada and Sherwood Aves. for use in training new firemen. The lot is owned by the township.

The next meeting will be Wednesday, Dec. 23. The meeting was advanced because Friday is Christmas Day.

Santa and the ICE KING

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

Synopsis: After a long journey across the ice sea, Oonik finally has reached Santa Land. Much to his dismay, he finds Santa suffering from the Ice King's wrath as much as the Eskimos of his own village.

CHAPTER SIX

Oonik ran down to the barn. The door was blocked by snow. He knew someone was inside because he could hear voices and every now and then the tap of a reindeer's hoof.

Oonik went around to the side of the barn. There he found a ladder leading up to an enourmous window high above. He had never seen a ladder before. He climbed it fearfully.

When he was near the top he looked down and when he saw Keotuk way below he grew so dizzy he almost fell. Shutting his eyes, he went up the rest of the ladder and climbed in the window.

He found himself at the top of a vast pile of hay. At the bottom of the pile was Santa Claus. He knew it was Santa because he was fat and round and wore a red suit and had silvery whiskers. But he didn't look gay and merry the way Oonik had always pictured him. He looked sad and worried.

HE WAS talking to a crooked-legged dwarf with large, flappy ears and the two of them were gazing unhappily at eight skinny reindeer.

"It's no use, Tweedleknees," Santa said. "I'm going to let them go. I can't keep them here to starve."

"If only they'd eat meat," grumbled the crooked - legged dwarf. "Or cookies. Or vegetables. Or something."

"They want moss," murmured Santa Claus. "They can't understand why summer has not come. I'll turn them loose. They can go somewhere where there's bound to be summer in August as it should be."

"But what will you do when Christmas comes?" asked Tweedleknees. "With no reindeer how will you make your rounds?"

"I don't know," Santa shook his head. "Perhaps there won't be Christmas any more. Who knows? Anyway, I'm turning them loose."

"We'll never get the door open, protested Tweedleknees. "It's blocked by snow."

"They can fly out the window," replied Santa. "That is if they still have the strength to fly."

"Come now," he said gently, patting the reindeer. "Fly away and find some summer feeding ground."

—:—

THE REINDEER looked around uncertainly and then, tapping their hooves three times on the floor, they flew gracefully upwards straight to the window where Oonik sat.

"Wait, wait!" cried Oonik rising to his feet. Don't let them go!"

But it was too late. The reindeer brushed past him, one by one, into the sky.

Then Santa called out, "Who on earth are you?"

Oonik slid to the bottom of the pile of hay. He landed with a plop at Santa's feet. "I'm Oonik the Eskimo boy," he said. "And I came to you because my people are being destroyed by the Ice King's anger."

"Ah," said Santa, "so are we, my boy. And it is the same everywhere. Only yesterday I had a letter from a child who said that though it was August she had not yet had a chance to use the bathing suit I bought her last Christmas. Another child wrote that he was still using the ice skates I brought to him. So you see, the whole world is cold."

"But you must stop the Ice King!" cried Oonik.

"I?" said Santa.

"Of course! You are the most powerful, the bravest, the wisest one on earth. You are the only one who can stop the Ice King."

Santa pulled his pipe from his pocket and slowly filled it. "Tell me," he said. "How shall I stop the Ice King?"

"Why," said Oonik simply, "by going to him and telling him to stop."

Now the crooked-legged Tweedleknees growled. "What nonsense! If Santa went to see the Ice King who knows what might happen to him!"

"I'll go, too," protested Oonik. "I—I could help!"

"You!" snorted Tweedleknees.

"Hush, Tweedleknees," said Santa. Then he looked for a long time into Oonik's eyes. At last he said, "Very good, son. We will go."

At last Santa said, "Very good, son. We will go."

U.S. Scraps Vega Project

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move that will cost 17 million dollars, the government has scrapped the 65-million-dollar Vega moon rocket. It hopes to get better reliability with another rocket now on the drawing board.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Friday the abandonment of the Vega program may delay some of its deep space probes by three to six months.

But other projects connected with Vega may be speeded up, NASA said. These tasks will be assigned to a new Atlas-Agena space rocket believed more reliable than Vega. The Atlas-Agena may be ready for first flight about a year from now.

The deep space probes will now be powered by the Centaur rocket. Centaur may be ready to go sometime in 1961.

NASA said its move was to reduce the number of rockets used in the U.S. space program, and to "buy reliability," rather than to save money. More money may be spent in the long run."

NASA said 17 million dollars already spent on Vega will be a total loss.

Jobless Up 40,000 Last Month

Decline Of Over Million In Employment Reported

WASHINGTON (AP)—Employment declined by over a million in November to 65,640,000. Unemployment rose nearly 400,000 to 3,670,000.

The employment decline was somewhat greater than seasonal, but still represented a record number of Americans in jobs for the month of November.

The rise in unemployment was only a bit more than half of what was seasonally expected.

Even so, it was the second highest idle total for a November since before World War II. The postwar record for November is the 3,833,000 unemployed in 1958.

In making public the job report Friday, Seymour Wolfbein, deputy assistant secretary of labor, said that if only seasonal economic influences occur between now and early next year, unemployment will probably rise to about 4½ million in January or February.

This would be about half a million to one million less than the unemployment figures for January and February in the recession year of 1958.

The November job data was collected only a few days after the steel strike was ended in early November by a Taft-Hartley law injunction.

The figures reflected a sizable return of steelworkers to their jobs, but a considerable dent in the employment total because of over 600,000 layoffs due to steel shortages.

Also November brings a seasonal decline in outdoor work such as construction and agriculture.

The report said a smaller number than usual of women and teenagers entered the labor force during November, looking for pre-Christmas work. Wolfbein said he had no immediate explanation for this.

But he said it helped reduce the seasonally adjusted rate of unemployment to 5.6 per cent in November. The ratio of idle to the labor force was 6 per cent in October.

The factory work week, which generally shows little change between October and November, declined by nearly a half-hour to 39.9 hours, due largely to cut-backs because of the steel strike.

Average factory worker hourly earnings rose by 2 cents over the month to $2.23, reflecting in part the return to work of higher paid steelworkers.

It's Already In The Law

Adlai Stevenson is such an amiable fun-loving man in his better moments that no one likes to disagree with him pointedly.

But when he makes a set speech in which he purports to propose as a new idea that the President of the United States be given authority to take deadlocks like the steel strike out of the hands of labor and industry, it is hard to believe he was trying to be amusing.

The American public, Mr. Stevenson pointed out to the Institute of Life Insurance this week, has a right to be represented at the bargaining table when industrywide bargainers make decisions affecting the entire economy.

The American public, Mr. Stevenson went on, has a right to demand that supplies it needs for its existence should not be shut off.

In a word, the American public is No. 1. Its minorities do not have the right to kick it around endlessly. In some situations, its minorities do not have the right to kick it around at all.

THE PRESIDENT of the United States should be empowered to authorize vital production while disputes are being settled.

Aside from the fact the United Steelworkers already have made it plain before the U.S. Supreme Court it does not agree with this point of view, there is something else that a two-time Democratic presidential candidate mhst take into consideration if he actually is proposing it as a novel idea.

The power already exists.

It is the Taft-Hartley injunction. It recently was used to nip a disastrous strike of longshoremen in the bud. It is currently being used to give steelworkers a chance to earn wages by making the steel the country needs.

As for Mr. Stevenson's apparent notion that it should be immediately available, it already is. The Taft-Hartley Act says:

"Whenever in the opinion of the President of the United States, a threatened or actual strike . . . will, if permitted to occur or to continue, imperil the national health or safety, he may appoint a board of inquiry to inquire into the issue involved in the dispute and to make a written report to him within such time as he shall prescribe."

UNDER ANY CONCEIVABLE interpretation, this gives the President power to appoint a board of inquiry when he sees trouble coming and to proceed with great dispatch to start the injunctive proceeding before the deadline of an impending strike has been passed.

It is a noteworthy circumstance of the steel deadlock that the Taft-Hartley Act has been the salvation of the steelworkers who needed to get back to work, of the Steelworkers Union, which needed to get off the hook, of the steel industry, which needed to get back into production, and of the steel consumers, who needed to get more steel.

Unfortunately, the law has been given such a bad name by a succession of irreconcilable foes, starting with Harry Truman when he was in the White House, that no one can remember when it was looked on as the salvation of a strike-plagued nation.

Many of its severest critics never read it. Many who did read it disagreed with it so violently for one reason or another, chiefly their self-interest, that they never understood what it was intended to do for the American people as a whole, who suddenly have become so important to the politicians.

Mr. Stevenson, it seems possible, may be among these.

Heard From Your Friends Lately?

National Association of Broadcasters, acting for the radio and television industry, has named a six-member board to cooperate with the Federal Trade Commission and the Federal Communications Commission as they carry on their investigations of dubious practices.

The president of the association, Harold E. Fellows, says wishfully the investigations "will bring out the full story of broadcasting's tremendous service to the American public which far transcends the misdeeds of a few individuals."

But that would be a hard, roundabout way of bringing out something that diesn't need to be brought out in the first place, except to ease the pain of what wil turn out to be a passing phase of electronic evolution. The people of this country, in case the broadcasters haven't thought about it realistically, are not being heard from.

The broadcasters are hearing from their critics. They are hearing from their opponents. They are hearing from disgruntled people who have scores to settle. They are hearing from politicians who want to teach them the fear of the lash.

They have not been hearing from their friends, because it has not been popular lately to stand up and say that a few crumbums and quicky-buckies do not constitute the whole industry. Moreover, the few who have tried to say this have been shouted down by the mob that was hell-bent on crucifying everybody from Van Doren to Freed. It has been a case study for mass psychologists.

To be sure, television and radio had it coming. They had been hog-careless about their internal housekeeping. They had been cynical about the public. They had been shortsighted about the mess they'd be in if they let the hucksters run wild. The inevitable happened.

But television and radio are essentially what they always were — a wonderful new dimension in communications. They bring us information and entertainment. They educate us. They shorten our hours of boredom if we are old. They have millions of friends who regard the furor over the quicky-buckies and the crum-bums as of no lasting consequence.

Now We Have The Four F's

The formal target of President Eisenhower's continent-hopping jaunt is the first World Agriculture Fair in New Delhi, India. The United States exhibit is expected to surpass the expectations of those who have criticized previous exhibits for signs of penny-pinching.

There will be four U.S. buildings, all with gilded towers. The central pavilion will cover five acres and will reflect the official U.S. theme: "Food, Family, Friendship and Freedom."

This is designed to have maximum impact on the three million Asiatics expected to troop through the exhibits of 14 nations, including Soviet Russia and Red China.

The United States expects to have an advantage in its display of farm machinery, which is admittedly the best the world can offer. That is its weakness. It may be too good for the requirements of Asiatics.

They do not know what a model American farm would look like, but they will have a chance to see a 36x42 ft. terrain model with crops, livestock, woodlots, poultry, barns and silos on display.

Perhaps there may be some helpful guides to tell them about farm-state politicians, subsidy-induced surpluses, cranberry fiascos and what happens when the price of pork falls in election years. It all belongs in the story.

It is the ostensible reason for President Eisenhower's long journey into the night of Asia's apparently insoluble agricultural problems. There is one single detail of the problem in India that has baffled and maddened every U.S. expert who tried to do something about it—the sacred cow. Hordes of these holy creatures that cannot be harmed overrun the countryside and eat more food than India can import each year. The cows eat better than the people.

To suggest to Indians that it might be well to have fewer cows and more food is as unthinkable as to suggest to Catholics in America that it might be well to have fewer Indian mouths.

It is a safe bet President Eisenhower will avoid mention of sacred cows, as carefully as any mention of birth control.

Food, family, friendship and freedom will be the subject matter of the official message —the Four F's of the American policy for friendly Asiatics.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

A father-and-son dialogue in respect to the current payola scandals:

"Popper, wat's payola?"

"It's nothing you need to know about."

"Then it's okay for me to put a dime in my letter to Santa?"

"A dime in a letter to Santa!"

"I just want to be sure it wouldn't be misunderstood as something wrong, Popper."

"Are you nuts? This would be trying to influence his acts."

"But you said payola was nothing I needed to know about."

"I can see you need to know plenty. Get it out of your noggin that Santa is a disc jockey plugging 'Jingle Bells' and 'White Christmas' "

"BUT ALL THE KIDS tell me everybody's taking payola."

"It may seem so. But the payola takers are a million miles from the codes of Santa Claus. Get this straight, sonny boy: Santa is not a character behind a song plugger or music publishing house. The only favors he expects from kids are decent behavior and a sock hung up in good faith."

"But just a dime in my letter, Dad. It wouldn't be a bribe, it would only mean I wanted to play ball with him."

"Listen, Junior. You wanna get Kris Kringle dragged before a district attorney? You wanna find an empty stocking because his reindeer got stuck with a Senate Committee? You wanna find the chimney plugged up by the FCC?"

"Gee, no, Popper. But ain't all the money you spend decorating the fireplace payola? How about that expensive outdoor Santa with reindeer on our lawn? Ain't it there to influence Santa?"

"You frighten me. How do kids get such strange notions about payola."

"Popper, IT'S EASY!"

A CARDIOGRAM has been taken of a whale's heart. (Is this important to anybody except a whale?) Not a whale has complained of heart trouble. And, anyhow, how do you get one to watch his diet, never get excited and avoid too much exercise, especially swimming. . . . A former Hollywood movie cowboy is now governor of South Africa. We knew Hollywood cowboys could be thrown far, but not that far.

Pappy Earl Long, who defied the statutes against another term as governor, by running for second place, got buried in the Louisiana primary. Looks like folks down there have at last decided that if they really want a Whodunit they can get it on TV.

The Power Of Faith

By Howard Brodie

An orphan grew up to become a bishop in Asia Minor in the Third Century. He fed the hungry, redeemed debtors, gave gifts to children and brought a convoy of grain ships to relieve a famine. He suffered long imprisonment by the Romans for his faith. His reputation for kindness made him one of the most reverred and popular Christians, St. Nicholas.

It is said that he compelled robbers to return stolen goods, that he gave bags of gold to a destitute father secretly at night as dowries for his daughters. When seen, he asked the father not to reveal his good deed. In remembrance, his holiday was celebrated by secretly leaving gifts for children at night.

St. Nicholas became the patron saint of Russia, Greece, and Holland, guardian of maidens, merchants, sailors, scholars and children. Dutch colonists introduced St. Nicholas, whom they called Sinter Klaas, to America. Gradually the bishop in robes was depicted as "a jolly rosy-cheeked little old man, with a low crowned hat, a pair of Flemish trunk hose." So the spirit of a generous man of faith lives today in Santa Claus.

Government Eases Labor Law Use

By Victor Riesel

Policey makers at the Voice of America have been using a big blue pencil like Picasso on a binge. They've been editing out of U.S. broadcasts certain criticisms of the Soviets, including some words written into a document by President Eisenhower. All of this should leave air time for the story which follows. It might irritate the Kremlin, but certainly we're entitled tot ell them about life in America.

Victor Riesel

There's a tough new labor law on the books, put there because President Eisenhower helped push it through — but the White House certainly is not tough about its rigid enforcement. Fact is that, if the enforcers wanted to, they could tie labor in knots with the Landrum - Griffin Labor - Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959. But no one is tying anyone in knots. Quite the contrary.

Fact is that the White House and the Cabinet are consulting very regularly with national labor leaders on the administration of the new law. Just two weeks ago some of the country's top labor officials, led by AFL-CIO Secretary - Treasurer William Schnitzler, dropped into the office of Secretary of Labor Jim Mitchell. Most of the union chiefs were men sharply critical of the Republicans in general and President Eisenhower in particular.

MITCHELL LISTENED to their suggestions and complaints. He promised there'd be no use of the law as a whip or for vengeance. They left quite jubilant.

On the following Monday the same group went up to the Department of Justice where some of Atty. Gen. William Rogers' staff men listened to their difficulties in complying with the law on such short notice. The Justice Department promised that there would be no needling or prosecution because of technical violations due to the bewildering complexities of the vast law.

The administration men did more than merely promise not to substitute persecution for prosecution. They gave their word that they would consult with the labor chiefs for years so that no clean union would be shrouded in suspicion before the public while the government went after the hood-run labor outfits.

Meanwhile, back at the Labor Department they're developing a rangy program for some 550 new specialists to ride herd on the vast amount of documents and probes burgeoning out of the new law.

TO MAKE CERTAIN that these newcomers don't persecute instead of prosecute where it's necessary, Labor Secretary Mitchell has set up a "school" inside his department. The employes of the new Bureau of Labor Management Reports must attend special indoctrination courses. These differ from the usual training of employes.

Usually a newcomer is taught how to handle forms or conduct investigations. But the 550 specialists are also being taught the history and the structure of unions. They will hear lectures on the philosophy of labor and its leaders. Ordinarily this sort of course is not given.

Now Mitchell has directed that the newcomers learn how to approach a union so its leaders and personnel are not offended or treated as though they were criminals. Never before has any government enforcement agency thus attempted to familiarize its people with the the theory and principles of unionism.

Jim Mitchell, furthermore, is making every effort to save the unions grief and money under the new law's bonding provision.

THIS BONDING of union officials for faithful performance of their duty could cost the unions millions of dollars. Some officials will have to be covered for as much as half a million dollars. There were complaints.

So on Nov. 16 and 17, Mitchell called in labor leaders, bank representatives, surety company officials and representatives of such independent consultants as Martin E. Segal. Literally millions of dollars will be saved now by the unions in bonding costs because of Mitchell's efforts.

Let's tell this "class struggle" story of life in America to the classless Russians.

Strange Ally

By Omer Anderson

BONN

Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon has a strange ally —Hjalmar Horace Greeley Schacht —on his more-guns-and-less-butter mission to Bonn.

Dillon's main item of business here, apart from the general subject of increased German payments for NATO troop upkeep, is the Bonn customs levy on imported American coal.

When this tax was imposed a year ago, the Germans termed it "temporary" and promised to rescind it within a year. The German pledge was given to head off agitation for a retaliatory U.S. customs hike against German automobile exports.

But the Germans reneged on their pledge, and the coal levy now looms as a red flag in the general American campaign to topple discriminatory anti-U.S. trade barriers.

DILLON'S "EXHIBIT A" for the Germans is their own Hjalmar Schacht, who is one of two masterminds behind a scheme to construct a crude oil pipeline between West Germany and the Italian port of Genoa.

Schacht's pipeline would knock into a cocked hat the Bonn government's efforts to prop up artificially the price of German coal. It dovetails perfectly with the U.S. argument that anti-U.S. trade barriers are only a self-deception to the nations involved.

West Germany has been importing around 17 million tons of coal a year. U.S. coal undersells Ruhr coal in North Germany even now, after the imposition of last year's $4.74-a-ton levy.

Meantime, the tax has failed to check the coal glut. Ruhr coal's glutted stocks have soared to around 19 million tons, as contrasted with 7 million tons when the $4.74 levy was enacted.

Schacht, an old-school German nationalist although no Hitlerite, has no use for defense spending in principle, but he nonetheless is being helpful to Dillon in another direction: Schacht is blasting the Germans for their extravagance and general flight from frugality.

THE OLD MAN in the high stiff collar isn't buying the current German argument that they are impoverished and doing the best they can.

"Germany as a nation is spending recklessly and foolishly. Nobody seems to know the meaning of thrift and moderation any longer. We should work harder and spend less," argues Schacht.

This is a position with which Dillon has no quarrel. As a professional investment banker, as is Schacht, Dillon will urge the Germans to invest in NATO.

In any event, Schacht's pipeline, in which Enrico Mattei, chief of the Italian state oil monopoly, is also a prime mover, will bring big trouble to the Ruhr coalfields in the form of cheap Middle East and Libyan crude oil.

Through The Years

THIRTY YEARS AGO — Midland Burgess Charles McNeill appealed for discarded clothes for the needy at Christmastime.

Edgar Platt, assistant to the general manager of the McLain Fire Brick Co., Wellsville, addressed members of the Wellsville Rotary Club.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — Columbian County and four sub divisions received a total of $8,826 for November relief.

The Municipal Court took in $738 in civil costs and criminal fines and costs during November.

TEN YEARS AGO — Elmer (Ike) Call was named president of the Wellsville firemen for 1950.

About 50 homes in the Orchard Grove Ave. district, west of St. Clair Ave., were without water while lineman repaired a leak in a six-inch main.

Ike's Conquest

By David Lawrence

President Successfully Promotes Peace

Who could better have represented the United States on a goodwill trip to Asia than Dwight Eisenhower!

David Lawrence

The man who commanded, in behalf of Western democracy, the biggest armed force in history in a triumphant war against autocracy is known today as a man of peace. He is dedicated to a cause that grips the hearts of men and women throughout the world — the cause of peaceful settlement of disputes lest nuclear war decimate mankind.

The unprecedented cheers and applause given to Mr. Eisenhower are a tribute to American motives and ideals. His magnetic personality is known, of course, to the officials and diplomats of governmental circles everywhere but hardly to the millions who give vent to spontaneous demonstrations of approval as they crowd around his car in country after country.

So, while it is a personal achievement for Mr. Eisenhower, it is at the same time an even greater achievement for the United States of America. It is proof that the Eisenhower doctrines of peace and goodwill have been widely publicized.

FOR MANY MONTHS now the stories have been current that Americans abroad are disliked, that America itself fosters materialsim and is not the idealistic country it claims to be.

Much of this is propaganda promoted by the Communists, but not a little of it has been poured into the American press by those politicians who seem to think political capital can be made by disparaging what a Republican administration has tried to do abroad.

Calls have been made repeatedly for "bold and imaginative ideas" or "policies that will look forward" as if the existing administration has not been face to face with the realities of world problems ever since it took office.

There cannot have been a bolder or more imaginative idea that President Eisenhower's decision to go to 11 countries in Europe, Asia and Africa, subjecting himself to the strains and hazards of an overseas journey covering 22,000 miles in less than three weeks.

Mr. Eisenhower's tour is unprecedented in scope and circumstance, but it is to some extent comparable to the mission of President Woodrow Wilson in 1919 when, in connection with his attendance at the Paris Peace Conference at the end of World War I, he made side trips to England, Belgium, Italy and the Vatican.

THIS CORRESPONDENT recalls the dramatic ride of Mr. Wilson down the Champs Elysees in Paris and the cheering throngs whose emotions were expressed in the phrase, "the coming of the savior of Europe."

The gratitude of the French people was unmistakable. They hailed Mr. Wilson as the living symbol of American sacrifice in their behalf. In England there was less demonstration but a marked cordiality.

In Italy the crowds were somewhat restrained. Already there were fears expressed that America might not side with the existing Italian government in its desire for some of the spoils of the war.

All in all, the great applause that greeted Mr. Wilson at the outset faded away in the weeks thereafter as bickering between the "Big Four" ensued. After months of vexing negotiations, a compromise settlement was reached that unhappily sowed the seeds of World War II by failing to deal sensibly with the problems created by dividing up German territory.

Mr. Eisenhower, on the other hand, has the good fortune today not to be burdened by any mission that calls for concrete settlement of any disputes between nations, though he has had ample opportunity to become entangled in the relations between India and Pakistan and between India and Red China.

MR. EISENHOWER'S decision to devote the remaining months of his administration to personal diplomacy is born of a firsthand knowledge of the destructiveness of a so-called "conventional" war as well as a familiarity with the potential power of nuclear weapons.

The President has benefited by the fact that he did receive Soviet Premier Khrushchev in the United States last September and promised to go to the Soviet Union next spring.

In the circumstances, the Communist propagandists, who in other circumstances would have stirred up hostile demonstrations with their "Yankee-go-home" signs, have outwardly at least been conforming to the spirit of the occasion as their party followers perfunctorily join in the applause.

The psychological effects of the Eisenhower trip are incalculable. Americans can well be proud that a man of Dwight Eisenhower's winning personality happens to be President of the United States.

His all-important quest for the solidarity of peoples is aptly epitomized in the phrase he repeats day after day: "Peace and friendship — in freedom."

Stand Up And Sing

By Truman Twill

You are reading along and suddenly you stop short, as if you had walked into the edge of a door in the dark.

You back off and stagger around until your head clears. Then you find the light switch, to clear up the mystery of what hit you.

What hit me was an explanation by one of my federal employes about a couple hundred thousand hymn books in the Columbus General Depot of the U.S. Army, Columbus, O. He was telling a reporter for the Cleveland Plain Dealer why it was up to him as property disposal officer to get rid of hymn books that had ceased to have value because they were stamped "Army and Navy" on the covers. He said that when the U.S. Air Force became a separate entity the books were no good any more.

Thousands of them had to be sold for a song, no joke intended, or given away so they can be replaced with brand spanking new hymn books marked "Armed Forces."

Will the members of the congregation remained seated to sing "old 98" while I stand up and holler?

After years of holding together the torn-loose leaves of the hymn books in the church my family helped to support, members of the congregation finally agreed that the decision to buy new copies could not be put off any longer.

Not only was the binding broken on the old books, but many of the pages were missing. They had fallen out and been yanked out, in some instances, to dispose of gum. The old hymnals were a mess.

But the faithful could put up with a lot of mess when the alternative was to dig down for wherewithal. They were still sweating out pledges they had made to put up the new church. As usual, the extras had added up to more than had been foreseen.

A supply of new hymn books would cost a couple hundred dollars. Because they would be for the benefit of all, they would have to be paid for as a general obligation, unless someone coughed up the money personally. No one at the time was doing any coughing on such a grand scale.

The books would have to be paid for the hard way, with bazaars, suppers, rummage sales, the church dining tent at the county fair and what could be squeezed out of the regular offering after the preacher had been subsisted and the coal bill paid. So we made do with what we had. I learned a lot about church financing at an early age, because my father was a member of the finance committee.

That is the way it was.

That is the way it is, except where the great big spend-happy U.S. government rattles its overgrown budget at the proprieties and decencies of life.

This hymnal thing is of a stripe with that shocker a few years ago when someone found out the U.S. Navy had ordered enough silver oyster forks for its officers' messes to last until the earth cooled.

It is of a stripe with a hundred things we've heard — we knuckle-cracking taxpayers. When our government sets out to squander money, nothing's beyond belief — a few hundred thousand too many airplanes, tanks, or trucks — a few million too many doilies — a decade's supply of hymn books thrown away so the fly-boys won't get their feelings hurt.

Odd thing: I do not remember what was stamped on the front of those beaten-up hymnals back home.

I don't believe anyone ever looked. We didn't sing what was written on the cover. We turned to the hymns inside and sang those. Why couldn't the soldiers, sailors and fly-boys do the same?

Or am I only being sensitive because it's getting toward the close of another income tax year?

It is true that there are some sounds which cannot be heard by the human ear. The lowest note in music which the ear recognizes is one that vibrates only 16 times per second, and the highest for most ears is one that vibrates about 20,000 times per second. The region above 20,000 is called "ultrasonic." Many insects produce sounds beyond the range of human hearing.

THE BEST CHRISTMAS OF ALL

Mommy said that this year I could help trim the tree, if I'd be very careful. The ornaments are so shiny and bright, and it's such fun to decide where to put them.

Mommy let me help fix our little crèche, too. I put in the figure of the Christ Child and He looked so pretty . . . all sort of pink and gold.

We fixed the crèche first because Mommy said that we must always remember that Christmas is, first of all, the Christ Child's birthday. When we finish trimming the tree, Mommy is going to read us the story about the first Christmas . . . about the shepherds and the angels . . . about the Wise Men and their star . . . about the little Jesus, born in Bethlehem, in a manger.

Mommy's told me the story before but she says that this year I'm big enough to stay up with the rest and hear her read it. And, of course, we'll go to Church, and Mommy says I can carry my fur muff.

I think this is going to be the best Christmas I've ever had!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Cunningham's 27 Pace ELHS To First Win

Wellsville Awaits Potters Tonight

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

The coaching debut at East Liverpool High School for one of its favorite sons — Jim Harris — proved a successful one as the Potters presented him with a 59-52 victory over Alliance Friday night at Memorial Auditorium.

The game, witnessed by some 1,000 fans, started the Potters down a winning road in contrast to a year ago.

Greatly responsible for the opening win of the 1959-60 campaign was sharpshooting guard Kenny Cunningham, who thrilled the partisan crowd with a 27 - point performance.

The Potters now turn their attention to Wellsville tonight, where the district's two long - time rivals meet headon in the first of two games.

TONIGHT'S battle at Beacom Memorial gym is expected to draw a capacity crowd. Action will get under way at 7 p. m. when the reserve teams meet. The varsity tilt will start about 8:30.

Harris will send the same lineup against Wellsville that started in the Alliance clash last night.

Coach Jack McDevitt is expected to stick with a lineup of Bob Kiggans, Phil Baldwin, Franklin Jackson, Ray Franklin and Milton Lamp.

Last season in two games the home team was the winner each time. The Potters took the measure of Wellsville, 60-56, at East Liverpool but the Tigers rebounded later in the season to overwhelm the Blue and White, 69-52, at the Beacom Memorial gym.

East Liverpool and Wellsville also will meet in the final game of the season for both schools on Feb. 27 at Memorial Auditorium.

Getting back to last night's action, the Potters worked the ball well most of the time, with only a few rough spots showing, which can be expected for an opening game.

They maneuvered for the good shot and usually got it, especially Cunningham who was hitting on long set shots from 30 to 35 feet away and his pet jump shot.

—:—

CUNNINGHAM, who stands 5-foot-10 was the leading scorer last season as a sophomore and appears headed in that direction again.

The sharpshooter hit on 10 of 20 from the field and dropped in 7 of 8 fouls.

The Potters as a team fired 35 per cent, hitting on 21 of 59 attempts while Alliance had 23 of 63 for 36 per cent.

East Liverpool picked up the victory at the foul line with some uncanny accuracy.

The Potters, who displayed poor shooting form from the foul line in the preview last week, showed marked improvement by dropping in 17 of 21 attempts last night.

Alliance outscored East Liverpool from the field 23-21, but the Aviators only shot 11 fouls, making 6.

Behind Cunningham in the scoring was Craig Burbick with 10 points, including four out of four fouls in the all - important fourth quarter.

Kenny Miller hit on four of nine shots and finished with 9 points, while Bob Mackall added 7.

Harris was calling his shots right when he sent substitute Phil Chan into the game in the fourth quarter. Chan responded with a quick set shot, then added a "bunny" in the last two minutes.

ZEODIS BYRD and Doug Duncan proved to be most of Alliance's offense. Byrd, hitting on one - hand jump shots from all over the floor, paced the Aviators with 16 points, while Duncan added 15.

Duncan hurt the Potters with 12 points in the first half, but was almost stopped cold and limited to only one fielder in the third and fourth quarters.

Sam Longmire added 10 points for the visitors.

Burbick was impressive on the boards, especially in the first half.

It was a ding-dong battle all the way, with the score being tied on 10 different occasions.

East Liverpool battled its way to an 18-14 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Not more than four points separated the two squads in the second period. With the score knotted at 28-28 with only 20 seconds remaining in the first half, Cunningham stole the ball at midcourt and scored to give East Liverpool a 30-28 edge at intermission.

The Potters had a chance to make it easy on themselves in the third quarter, pulling out to a 38-31 lead after Cunningham had hit on four straight buckets. But it didn't take long for the Aviators to bounce right back into the game.

A substitute, Bill Siegenthaler, came off the bench and quickly responded with a foul and two baskets which cut the score to 40-36 as the third quarter ended.

Then Jim Davidson and Longmire hit two straight fielders to tie the game at 40-40.

—:—

AFTER BURBICK and Duncan exchanged goals for another deadlock, Longmire pushed Alliance in front 44-42, but Mackall converted a foul and cut the margin to one point, 44-43.

Byrd gave Alliance a three-point edge by hitting on a jump shot.

Miller followed with a foul. Then, with four minutes remaining, Chan hit a long set shot to tie the score 46-46.

Byrd drove in alone and Alliance had the lead once again.

Cunningham tossed in a foul, but Byrd hit to shove Alliance in front 50-47.

Only three minutes showed on the clock when Cunningham hit on a set shot and cut the lead to 50-49.

With 2:21 remaining to be played, Burbick stepped to the foul line and calmly sank two straight fouls that put the Potters in front 51-50 for a lead they never lost.

Chan got loose under the basket for a goal, but Bob Wallace added a long one - hander to keep Alliance within one point.

Cunningham went to the foul line and with 1:20 left converted both tries. Burbick added two more fouls, then Cunningham went around his guard with 15 seconds to go for the final field goal.

Wellsville Scorches Lisbon In 89- 64 Win

Tigers Shoot 56%; Comparetto Stars

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

Wellsville High confronted Lisbon with a red-hot shooting exhibition from the outside and dominated rebound action to win easily, 89-64, Friday night at the Columbiana County seat.

Coach Jack McDevitt's potentially powerful squad will open its home season tonight at Beacom Memorial Gym with a 1-1 record to pit against East Liverpool.

The defeat came in the season's opening game against Midland, when the Tigers performed erratically. But last night's second game saw Wellsville begin to shape into expected form in both shooting and teamwork.

LISBON battled strongly for the first half of the foul-marred contest but eventually fell before superior scoring power and all-around ability. The game marked the debut of Gary Pike as Lisbon's head coach.

Wellsville received clutch performances from bench personnel during the third quarter and the substitutes provided the spark to boost a narrow lead into comfortable proportions.

Personal fouls limited action by both Bob Kiggans and Franklin Jackson, but their absences from the lineup had little effect on the outcome.

Kiggans played about 10 minutes in all after committing his fourth foul with 5:22 left in the third period. The rangy Jackson also was used sparingly due to fouls. Both, however, contributed 10 points to the attack and Jackson turned in some commendable rebound work.

—:—

LANKY Mac Comparetto and sophomore center Jerry McCloud, 6-4 transfer from Kentucky, came off the bench to spearhead Wellsville's drive to a 64-47 third-quarter lead.

Lisbon was threatening to move ahead when Comparetto and McCloud, aided by some fine outside shooting by Milton Lamp, began netting points consistently.

Comparetto had the finest night of his varsity career in both shooting and rebounding and dropped in 19 points for game scoring honors. McCloud coolly helped control rebounding in his substitute assignment and chipped in with seven points.

For Wellsville, Lamp pumped in seven field goals on jump shots from far outside, while Phil Baldwin took care of the inside scoring and drew 10 free throws. Baldwin made seven foul shots and two buckets for 11 points. Wellsville showed five cagers in the double figures.

Lisbon, short on size and experience save for tall center Chuck Faust, relied on Bob Simpson, 6-0 senior, for most of its scoring punch. Simpson dropped in eight goals and a foul for 17 points, with Faust getting 14 and Tom Brooks, 5-10 forward, 11. Simpson is a transfer from Canton Lehman.

WELLSVILLE goaled 37 of 66 shots for a blazing 56 per cent shooting average. Lisbon connected for 26 of 56 shots.

The first quarter found both squads parading to the foul line due to roughhouse tactics and only six minutes had slipped by before Kiggans departed because of personals. The score was tied four times before the first period ended with Lisbon on top 17-16, on Brook's jump shot at the buzzer.

Faust dropped in three straight foul shots in the first period when the officials charged Jackson with hacking, then charged the senior center with a technical. Another technical was called on the same play against McDevitt for contesting the call.

The lead exchanged hands until 5:33 in the second period when consecutive buckets by McCloud, Comparetto and Lamp hoisted Wellsville in front to stay, 24-21.

Following a foul conservion by Simpson, Wellsville proceeded to score 10 straight points, including two long jump shots by Lamp, and moved ahead, 34-22. Halftime found the Tigers leading comfortably, 41-30.

As the third quarter unfolded, Comparetto immediately hit for a layup on a fast break and Jackson scored three buckets as Wellsville pulled well in front. The third quarter buzzer found the Tigers running away with the game, 64-47.

KIGGANS tipped in two buckets, Comparetto got another on a fast break and Jackson hit a jumper as the fourth period opened. Fry's jump shot for Lisbon made the score 72-49.

Brooks for Lisbon fouled out with 5:05 left.

In the preliminary, Coach Carl Firm's Wellsville reserves handily trimmed Lisbon's reserves, 61-29.

Three starters hit double figures for the Tigers, with Ben Cannadate and Roger Ours each getting 12 and Wilbert Jones 10. Frank Luckino, a smooth passer, engineered Wellsville's floor game and scored seven points. Rick Gray got eight.

Coach Bob Theiss' Lisbon Jayvees, scoring only five points in the final period, got only one shot at the Wellsville goal most of the game as McCloud snatched most of the rebounds.

Roger McCoughn topped the Lisbon scoring with eight points and husky Bob Nicholson and Jeff Henry each scored five.

Stanton Trips Wintersville Five By 63-47

Stanton Local of Irondale cashed in heavily at the foul line to topple Wintersville, a Class AA club, 63-47, Friday night at the Irondale gymnasium.

Coach Les Douglas' Irons scored their second triumph in four outings by dropping in 23 of 35 free throws and outshooting the Warriors by one field goal.

It was the season's opener for Coach Bob Kettlewell's Wintersville squad.

The Irons' took advantage of erratic Wintersville passing to pull far ahead after the first quarter, 20-8. Wintersville's attack picked up momentum after halftime, but the Warriors committed too many personal fouls to narrow the lead to within striking distance.

Stanton's play-making guard, Bill Chetock, hit for six field goals and sank eight of nine foul shots for 20 points and game scoring honors.

Guard Lonnie Fraley also hit in double figures with 11, while big Bob Mills garnered nine and Pete Allen seven.

Davis led the losers with 17 points. The Warriors converted only nine of 22 free throws.

Jim Bottomley, Ex-Major League Star, Dies At 59

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sunny Jim Bottomley, 59, the only player in major league baseball history to drive in 12 runs in one game, died of a heart ailment while Christmas shopping Friday.

The former first baseman, the National League's most valuable player in 1929 and a veteran of 15 seasons with the St. Louis Cardinals, Cincinnati Reds and old St. Louis Browns, lived up to his name until the end. He was joking with a friend only moments before he was found slumped over the wheel of his car in a downtown parking lot.

It was on Sept. 16, 1924, that James Leroy Bottomley wrote his name into the record books with six hits good for 12 RBI against the Brooklyn Dodgers. The hits included two home runs, a double and three singles.

He repeated his six-for-six achievement on Aug. 5, 1931, against Pittsburgh, this time with a double and five singles. He is the only National Leaguer to go six-for-six two times.

The cocky first baseman, who wore his cap at a rakish angle and was noted for his sunny disposition, had a lifetime batting average of .310 and fielded .988 during his 1,991-game career, most of it with the Cardinals.

Toncic Reports Offer To Play With Buffalo

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Ivan Toncic, senior quarterback of the Pitt Panthers last season, says he has been offered a contract to play with Buffalo in the new American Football League.

Toncic said he has not accepted the offer, but added he's anxious to play professional football "just to prove myself as a big leaguer."

Toncic said Friday the offer was made Wednesday, and that it was in excess of $6,500.

Pitt And Dukes Win; 'Big O' Bags 48 Points

By JOHN CHALDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Steel Bowl at Pittsburgh and the Treasure State classic at Bozeman, Mont., Friday night opened a big list of major college basketball tournaments that will run through the Christmas Holidays. Next Friday, four more big tournaments will get under way.

But while Pittsburgh and Duquesne were setting up a hometown finale for the Steel Bowl for the second straight year, and Oklahoma City and Montana State gained the finals of the Bozeman affair, two Atlantic Coast Conference teams were making it tough for a pair of Big Eight Conference teams at Raleigh, N.C.

Slightly favored Kansas State, defending Big Eight champions, was handed a 66-59 defeat by North Carolina State. Kansas, a winner over Northwestern and Texas Tech, was beaten 60-49 by North Carolina.

Pitt, soundly trounced by Ohio State and Purdue recently, pulled a shocker by downing St. John's of Brooklyn—the 1959 National Invitational champions — 74-73. William and Mary, undefeated in four starts, was beaten by Duquesne 53-52.

Oklahoma City ran up to 40-26 halftime lead over San Francisco and sailed into the finals with a 71-54 victory. Larry Chanay led Montana State to a 81-75 victory over Oregon with 32 points.

Pitt, which beat Duquesne in the Steel Bowl final last year, trailed St. John's 43-54 in the second half. Then Pitt rallied for 15 straight points for a 58-54 lead and the ball game. Duquesne won its third straight, after trailing 22-26 at halftime.

Oscar Robertson led Cincinnati to a 123-79 victory over St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, scoring 48 points. In winning their fourth straight, the Bearcats went over 100 points for the third time this season.

Midland Beats Ellwood City, 65-54, For Fourth Straight

Yetso, Smith Score 18 Each To Pace Leopards

Accuracy at the foul stripe provided Midland with its fourth straight exhibition victory Friday night, 65-54, over a plucky Ellwood City quint at the Midland gymnasium.

The undefeated Leopards of Coach George Hamilton, playing without the full time services of senior star Gene Lake, hit on 23 of 34 charity tosses to drop their opponents.

Ellwood City is now 2-2 for the season.

Lake, ill with the flu, was used sparingly but giant center Movie Smith and tall forward Steve Yetso took up the slack in smashing fashion to spark the Midland attack.

Smith, 6-4 center, and Yetso, 6-5, each hit for 18 points for the Leopards.

Ellwood City matched field goals but received only 18 foul shots which told the eventual outcome. The losers hit 12 of 18, with both squads finishing with 21 goals apiece from the floor.

Carl Anderson was the only other Leopard to hit for double figures, getting 11 on four goals and three of five fouls. Barney Silverman, who started in place of the ailing Lake, got two foul shots. Don Migliore, Midland's floor general, contributed eight.

Lake scored one field goal in his abbreviated appearance.

The Leopards dominated rebounding with a considerable height advantage over Ellwood City.

Ricky Assini and Jim Fusetti each hit for 14 points for the losers, while George Rocco added 12.

Midland remained on top at each quarter break and was ahead by 14 points after three periods, 45-39. Ellwood City was forced to shoot mostly from the outside.

In the preliminary, Midland's reserves bumped the Ellwood City reserves from the ranks of the undefeated, 52-46.

Yanks, A's Swap Seven With Maris As Key Man

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees and the Kansas City Athletics, old hands at swapping players, have completed their 15th transaction with outfielder Roger Maris the key player in the seven-man deal.

Thwarted in an attempt to trade with other clubs in both leagues, the Yankees Friday obtained Maris, on whom they have had designs to plug an outfield hole since they wound up third in the American League last season.

With the 25-year old, long-ball hitting outfielder they also got veteran shortstop Joe Demaestri and first baseman Kent Hadley. A Yankee spokesman said DeMaestri probably will be used as trade bait in an effort to strengthen the pitching staff.

To Kansas City, the Yankees sent Norm Siebern, a hard-hitting but weak fielding outfielder; pitcher Don Larsen, plagued with a sore arm almost ever since writing his name in the record books with a perfect World Series game in 1956 and Hank Bauer, 37-year-old outfielder and Marv Throneberry, utility first baseman-outfielder.

The deal came only four days from the end of the interleague deadline and five days after the pennant-winning Chicago White Sox and the runnerup Cleveland Indians apparently strengthened themselves in another seven-player swap.

"We have tried unsuccessfully to trade with other clubs in both leagues," said Yankee General Manager George Weiss. "The Yanks and Kansas City have faith in each other."

A total of 59 players have shuttled back and forth between New York and Kansas City since the Athletics moved from Philadelphia during the winter of 1954. Several have made the trip both ways.

MacPhail Promoted As Orioles' President

BALTIMORE (AP) — Lee MacPhail is officially the new president of the Baltimore Orioles, but Jim Keelty, the outgoing chief, says he'll keep a hand in the team's operation.

MacPhail, tapped for the job by Keelty when the latter announced his resignation, was formally promoted from general manager to president at Friday's board meeting.

Ending speculation that he might also sell his stock in the club, Keelty agreed to remain on the board.

MacPhail, in stepping up to the top Oriole post, matched an accomplishment of his colorful father, Larry MacPhail, who headed the New York Yankees until his 1947 retirement from baseball.

Lee, who will continue to perform the duties of general manager, will receive an estimated $35,000 a year.

Carter Wins Bowling Title

CHICAGO (AP)—Any doubt as to the greatest bowler in the country was quickly dispelled Friday when Don Carter, the 33-year-old St. Louis native, won his second world's bowling title in three years.

While Carter was winning the men's title and a check for $5,000, Olga Gloor, a spunky 39-year-old housewife and bowling instructor from Chicago, was capturing the women's crown before a packed Chicago Coliseum and a national television audience.

Carter's performance, which was all the more spectacular since he was in 71st place last Saturday among the 128 men.

Going into the final four games of the position round, Don needed one victory and when Billy Golembiewski of Detroit won the first two games, the pressure was on the stoop-shouldered veteran.

Don actually won the title in the third game when he doubled in the tenth frame to win 186-180 and end Golembiewski's hopes for the title. Carter added a little icing to the cake in the final game, winning 205-204.

This left Carter with a Petersen point total of 320.32 while Golembiewski had 316.27. In third was Andy Rogoznica of Chicago with 313.05. Second place was worth $2,500 and third $1,250.

In the women's division, Mrs. Gloor came through in the final position round match to win her first major individual title.

Olga beat Donna Zimmerman of Akron in the two final games to take the title, worth $2,500.

Mrs. Gloor finished with 149.02 Petersen points while Miss Zimmerman had 145.41 for second and $1,250. Third place went to Janet Harman, Whittier, Calif., who had 145.34 for $625.

Individual scoring honors for the tournament went to balding, 41-year-old Lou Frantz of Louisville, Ky., who had a perfect 300 game in the qualifying round last Saturday and to Miss Sylvia Wene of Philadelphia who matched Lou's feat with a 300 in the finals on Friday.

Ray Bluth of St. Louis won the 1959 ABC Masters bowling event with a 214 average for 28 games.

EAST PALESTINE — East Palestine High edged Boardman at the foul line to record its second straight victory, 54-48, here Friday night.

Raiders Gain 62-55 Victory; Hutton Has 29

Coach John Robison's Newell High Vikings could almost reach out and touch victory, but were nipped, 62-55, by New Cumberland in an overtime battle Friday at the Wells High gym.

Jim Kiger proved the hero for New Cumberland by sinking a foul late in the regulation time to provide a 50-50 tie.

Kiger also remained hot in the overtime by dropping in six of the 12 points scored by the Blue Raiders in the extra three-minute period.

New Cumberland led all through the first half with a 13-5 margin at the first period mark and 24-20 at halftime.

Newell finally evened the score at 36-36 with its Hancock County rival and the game ended in a 50-50 tie.

The contest was Newell's third in four days after the Vikings lost to Salineville in the opener and to Northwestern Thursday night.

Larry Hutton had a red hot night for the Vikings by scoring 29 points.

Hitting well from the outside, Hutton dropped in 9 field goals and showed some accurate foul shooting by caging 11 of 14 charity attempts.

While Hutton was high man on the floor, Ronnie Haynes paced New Cumberland's attack with 16 points while Fred Huff and Kiger and freshman standout, Ken Freshwater, all dropped in 13 points.

Newell captured the reserve contest, 49-45.

Exercise Balances Diet For Weight Loss

The dieter who slights exercise usually regrets it, for too often she winds up with almost the same figure faults but on a smaller scale.

By Ida Jean Kain

One young lady laments:

"I used to weigh 181 and I now weigh 150, for 5 feet 7. This sounds better than it looks, for even though I have lost 31 pounds I still have a figure problem.

"It seems that by not exercising I did not lose the weight where I needed to lose most — off my waist and hips. When I wear a sweater the excess fat around my waist and the roll above it can plainly be seen.

"I did not exercise for I thought it a waste of time, mainly because I always believed it would take at least a year to lose one inch.

—:—

"MY FRIENDS now tell me differently. I need to lose 4 or 5 inches off my waist and firm the hips. I imagine there are many girls who need these special exercises, so would you please do a column about it."

With pleasure! Here are the exercise rules: Breathe calmly and freely while exercising. Never hold your breath. Exercise every day, stop before you feel tired.

Start with a limbering stretch. Position: Standing, feet together, hold arms overhead, slightly bent at elbows.

Movement: Reach up with right arm, stretching smoothly through the middle measurement. Then lower the right shoulder. Stretch up with the left arm . . . again centering the stretch through the middle. Continue "climbing" eight to ten times. You will feel pleasantly stretched.

From this same position, with feet apart, arch arms overhead. Stretch up, and hold the stretch as you bend smoothly toward the right side. Come back to center, again pull slim through the middle measurement and bend toward the left side. Stretch and bend 8 to 10 times, alternating sides. Do not allow hips to bow out at sides as you bend.

To slim and firm the hip muscles —swing. You can swing legs from a lying down position, or from a standing position. To be effective, the swing rearward must be past 45 degrees.

MOVEMENT: Swing top leg away up in front, then swing vigorously rearward. Swing forward again, and on the second rearward swing, hold the muscle contraction for a slow count of six. Repeat eight to ten times, change sides and swing with opposite leg.

How long will it take to see results? You will notice the difference in a few weeks time and by the holidays the praise from your friends will be sweet music.

Send a stamped, self-addressed, long envelope for "Slim Hips In a hurry" and "For A Slimmer Midriff." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of this newspaper. Post card requests cannot be answered.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I determine, before painting my walls, just what the ultimate shade my flat wall paint will be when it has dried?

A. You can brush a little of your paint on a clean white blotter. The blotter will soak up the oils quickly and leave the pigments on the surface, where they will assume the same color as when dry on your wall.

Q. How can I remove grease spots from hardwood floors?

A. First scrub the spots with water as hot as can be borne. Then drop ordinary peroxide of hydrogen on the spot. Let dry and, in most cases, the spot will have disappeared.

Q. How can I easily separate the white and yolk of an egg?

A. Break it into a funnel. The white will flow through and the yolk will remain unbroken in the funnel.

Christmas Plays Given By Pupils At Fairview PTA

A Christmas program was presented by pupils of the first four grades when the Fairview Parent-Teacher Association met Thursday night at the Hillcrest School near Wellsville.

More than 100 attended the program, which included plays by each grade.

First graders participated in a playlet, "The Light of Christmas Love," under the direction of Mrs. Frances Jack while "Christmas Spirit" was the play given by the second graders directed by Mrs. Cynthia Kokis.

Mrs. Catherine Smith was in charge of the third grade's play, "Time Out for Christmas." The fourth grade's play, "Christmas In Germany," was directed by Miss Jane Morris.

Mrs. Betty Glass, president, conducted business when plans were made for the Christmas party Dec. 18 for the children. Homeroom mothers will be in charge and Santa Claus will distribute treats.

The attendance banner was won by the second grade. A candy and bake sale was held after the meeting.

The organization will join with other groups for a combined PTA meeting Jan. 18 at MacDonald School in Wellsville. Judge Louis Tobin will be the speaker.

County To Buy Car

LISBON — Sealed bids will be opened Monday, Dec. 21, for the purchase of a 1960 Chevrolet Biscayne two-door sedan by Columbiana County commissioners for use by the sheriff's department. The bids will include a trade-in of a 1958 Plymouth coach now in use.

City Gets Bids On 50 Meters And New Auto

The Board of Control Friday afternoon took under advisement 3 bids for a new station wagon for use in the fire department and a lone offer totaling $2,325 on 50 parking meters for use on 2 new off - street lots and replacement of old equipment.

Mayor Fred P. Lawrence and Safety - Service Director Joseph F. Ross, who comprise the board, opened the sealed bids at noon at City Hall. They indicated a decision on the purchases will be made in a few days.

The apparent low bid on the station wagon was a $2,887 offer from Parsons Sales & Service of Market St. It offered a 1960 Studebaker four - door 8-cylinder station wagon with automatic transmission and special equipment and heavy duty features specified by the city.

Mike Turk, Inc., of E. 6th and Walnut Sts. offered a 1960 Chevrolet Brookwood four - door V-8 station wagon for $2,946. As an alternate, Turk bid $3,531 on a 1960 Buick LeSabre four - door station wagon.

Carroll Motor Sales, Inc., of Dresden Ave. bid $3,101 on a 1960 Ford Ranch Wagon with V-8 engine and automatic transmission.

Council recently appropriated $3,300 for the purchase. No trade-in was provided for and the administration said at the time that a station wagon now used by the fire department probably will be transferred to the use of another city department. It mentioned Sewer Inspector Floyd E. Tice, now furnished with an older model station wagon that the administration said is ready for replacement.

The lone offer on parking meters was filed by the Kountz Equipment Corp. of Pittsburgh, distributor of Duncan-Miller Meters made by the Motor Products Corp. of Chicago. It offered the manual type meters at $53.50 each, less $7 apiece for trade-ins, which makes the net price $46.50 per meter.

The city will receive a further 2 per cent discount if it makes payment in 60 days, but it also has the option of paying out of parking revenue at the rate of $2 per meter per month, the company said.

The director said 24 of the meters will provide for maximum parking time of 10 hours at 5 cents hourly. They will be installed on the two municipally - owned lots at 3rd and Market Sts. which the city is converting to parking.

The remaining 26 meters will be used for replacement of an equal number of the old "automatic" type meters which have been in use since 1947, the director said. Like the meters they will replace, they will be set up for a maximum of 2 hours' parking at 5 cents hourly. Council appropriated $2,500 for the meters.

Lotus Ware Sold For Initial Time At Public Auction

Seventeen pieces of famed lotus ware, a prized bone china developed around 1889 by the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles Pottery, were sold at New York last weekend—marking the first public sale of the rare type of ware.

The items — which included delicate vases, dishes and jars—were part of the collection of art objects assembled by D. Omer Tobias and removed from Piqua by a receiver of his property.

Lotus ware has a superior whiteness and translucence achieved through the use of ashes of calcined bones in production. KT & K won premiums in pottery exhibits at the 1893 Chicago World's Fair for its lotus ware, but production was stopped after the demand dwindled.

The auction was held at the noted Parke-Bernet Galleries of Madison Ave., New York.

Tobias is serving a 10-year prison term for embezzling $414,000 from the Hobart Manufacturing Co. at Troy, Ohio, where he was an export clerk. He spent the money furnishing his home with a fabulous collection of art works and antiques. The collection is being sold to satisfy a judgment the Hobart firm obtained against him after he was convicted.

Hanoverton Motorist Hurt Slightly In Crash

A Hanoverton motorist was injured slightly in one of two accidents investigated Friday evening by the Lisbon State Highway Patrol.

Paul White, 23, was treated at Salem City Hospital for an injury to his left shoulder suffered when his car rolled over on County Route 400 about 4 miles southwest of Salem last night at 7.

Officers said White failed to negotiate a curve with his 1951 sedan. He was arrested for reckless operation.

Cars driven by Arlen K. Robinson, 26, of Cleveland and Merle L. Scherffler, 39, of Lisbon R. D. 4 were involved in a collision on Route 45 about a mile north of Lisbon yesterday at 4:15 p. m.

Robinson, who started to pass Scherffler making a turn, was cited for reckless operation.

Town Will Be Billed $1.10 By Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Memo to the 180 residents of Bentleyville: Your village owes the city of Cleveland $1.10.

That's Bentleyville's share of the $10,899 spent by 56 northeastern Ohio communities in negotiations with East Ohio Gas Co. on a rate increase. Cleveland paid $5,732.

Ralph S. Locher, Cleveland law director who headed the negotiations, said Friday he was a little squeamish about billing Bentleyville, but added:

"It's the principle. We have to collect from the other communities . . . who participated with us in the rate fight."

Bentleyville won't resent the bill. As a matter of fact it's a bargain. The village council appropriated $4.50 last June as its share of the cost.

Survey Will Ask Double-Job Data

Special questions, designed to provide information on the number of persons who have more than one job, will be asked in the December Current Population Survey, it was announced today by Director Edgar L. Bryan of the Census Bureau's regional office at Pittsburgh.

Similar questions asked in the Current Population Survey last year revealed that 3.1 million workers were holding 2 or more jobs in July 1958. The proportion of all employed persons holding more than one job was 4.8 percent.

The special questions on secondary jobs will be in addition to the regular monthly inquiries on employment and unemployment. Current Population Survey information will be collected locally next week.

Surplus Foods Waited In Wellsville And City

Surplus food distribution will be held Monday in the city Building in Wellsville and Tuesday at the Central Fire Station in East Liverpool, according to Robert Bycroft, county welfare director.

Food was distributed Thursday at the warehouse in Columbiana to 116 families totaling 357 persons. Some 296 families with 662 persons had been certified.

In Salem Friday, 105 families received food for 290 persons with 211 families or 491 persons certified, Bycroft said.

Hand Tools Injure 2 Men Working At Home

One man was admitted and another treated Friday at City Hospital for injuries suffered while working with hand tools at home.

Elmer Laughlin, 57, of Georgetown is in "good" condition today with a severe laceration of the finger suffered while using a planer about noon yesterday.

Carl Schmitt of Gaston Pl. cut his left index finger on a hand saw yesterday morning.

Library Will Feature Books For Holidays 'How-To-Do-It'

The holiday season is a period when lots of folks try doing something new and the Carnegie Public Library is featuring a shelf of books on how-to-do-it, Miss Frances Jones, librarian, said.

The editor of Design magazine, G. Alan Turner, comes to the rescue with "Creative Crafts for Everyone." He has included Christmas tree trimming, styrofoam art, and hand-decorated boxes, along with many of the standard crafts. There is an entire chapter devoted to mobiles.

For the homemaker, there are two alluring new cookbooks to add zest to the season. Better Homes and Gardens presents 400 new recipes in its "Meat Cook Book." Pan American Airways and her own personal travels have furnished Myra Waldo with the inspiration for her "Complete Round-the-World Cookbook." Salmon doughnuts, Polish pike, and Korean flower cakes are a few examples of the 600 recipes from 85 different countries.

Bonnie Prudden, who advocates exercise for better health and has gained fame through TV, has published a "Fitness Book." It is amply illustrated. Since she is an ardent advocate of children's exercise, Miss Pruden has included diagrams for building back yard playgrounds. These include balance mazes, hurdles, parallel bars and ramps.

A teacher, Adele Margolis, at the Junto, at Philadelphia, the largest adult center in the country, adds impetus to home dressmaking with her book, "How to Design Your Own Dress Patterns." Blending imagaination and practicality, Elizabeth Ogg suggests interior home improvements in "Decorating on a Budget."

The man of the house will find C. T. Bower's "Aids to Workshop shop Practices" abounding in gadgets and hints to aid the engineer, eer, mechanic, and machinist. The American Technical Society publishes only a few good books each year — the latest pair from this publisher includes a second edition of Leroy Bruce's "Sheet Metal Shop Practice" and S. E. Rusinoff's "Tool Engineering."

Many folks consider themselves amateur promoters. Management consultant, Harry Simmons, offers a gold mine of ideas in "How to Run a Club." Sam Sinclair Baker talks about the "Big Idea" in selling. How to sell a product is the theme of his "Casebook of Successful Ideas for Advertising and Selling." Perfect pronunciation is a valuable adjunct to selling an idea, and the library has just acquired James Bender's "NBC Guide to Pronunciation."

Guaranteed to bring a smile to the reader is a new history of advertising. Frank Rowsome has entitled his book, "They Laughed When I Sat Down." The caption comes from a widely advertised course of piano lessons given by mail. Further chuckles are inevitable if the harried shopper drops down into his easy chair with either of these: "Land of Milk and Omelets" by Ken Kraft tells of dilemmas of would - be farmers from the city and "Preposterous Papa" chronicles the zany life in the Oklahoma Territory at the turn of the century.

The current teen - agers' idol speaks up for young adults and also tenders some practical advice in "Your Happiest Years." The author is, of course, Dick Clark.

Origin Of Hymns Narrated With Verse For Lions

A different type of musical program was presented by the Lions Club Friday noon at the Travelers Hotel when Ernest Lowe narrated the origins and sang verses of 16 hymns.

Lowe explained hymns have been used to portray every emotion and sang the numbers to depict the various emotions. Mrs. Marian Gerace, who planned the program, was accompanist.

The emotions and the hymns Lowe sang included joy, "Joyful, Joyful, We Adore Thee;" faith, "Our God, Our Help In Ages Past;" guidance, "Lead Kindly Light;" peace of mind, "Nearer My God To Thee;" democracy, "America, The Beautiful;" comfort, "What A Friend We Have In Jesus."

Courage, "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God;" love, "Blessed Be the Tie That Binds;" assurance, "Abide With Me;" praise, "For the Beauty of the Earth;" submission, "O Love, That Wilt Not Let Me Go;" atonement, "Rock of Ages;" dedication, "I Would Be True;" salvation, "The Old Rugged Cross;" life eternal, "Christ Is Risen, Hallelujah," and Christmas, "Away In the Manger."

Lowe closed by singing a Negro spiritual, "Sweet Little Jesus."

Victor C. Smith, president, presided. The club will entertain some 36 children at the annual Christmas party next Friday.

Sweets-Filled Socks Will Be Given Children

Large, 30-inch socks, made by club members and filled with candy and fruit, will be distributed to youngsters of the Child Health Clinic at the Business & Professional Women's Club Christmas party for them Sunday afternoon from 1 until 3 at the Elks Club.

Mrs. May Hartt, chairman, said that gifts were set up on the tables when the group decorated the hall Friday night. A large tree was trimmed by club members, who will assist in distributing the treats to the 68 children.

Don Brunner of Alliance will be Santa Claus.

Refreshments will be served.

This annual project is one of the highlights of the BPW Club agenda.

City Woman To Speak To PTA At Wellsville

Mrs. Clarence Green, a member of the East Liverpool Garden Club, will present a program on home decorations for Christmas at a meeting of the McKinley Parent - Teacher Association Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the Wellsville school.

Mrs. Eileen Bush will be program chairman. Mrs. Betsy Erwin will play for the singing of Christmas carols. The Rev. William Hewitt, pastor of the Central Methodist Church, will lead devotions.

Second grade homeroom mothers will serve refreshments. Jack Lanam, president, will preside.

Will Be New Dean

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Roy M. Kottman, 42, will be the new dean of Ohio State University's College of Agriculture, replacing present Dean Leo L. Rummell who is retiring. Dr. Kottman is the dean of the Agriculture Department at West Virginia University, Morgantown.

Licenses Suspended For 4 Young Drivers

LISBON — Driving licenses of four youths were suspended on charges of speeding at Traffic Court hearings at the Courthouse this week. Two others were fined.

The permits of Robert Lee Cannon, 16, of 125½ N. Market St., Lisbon, and Glenn C. Rupp, 16, of Alliance, were suspended — for 30 days each and David Wade Wellman, 17, of 215 E. High St., Lisbon, and Larry Curtis Shreve, 17, of Damascus, 15 days each.

James Ruthen, 17, of 835 W. 8th St., East Liverpool, was fined $10 for failing to obey a traffic signal and Robert Lee Brandt, 17, of Winona, $5 for driving left of center. He was involved in an accident.

Bridge Due Repairs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The two west-bound lanes of a bridge crossing Beaver Creek on U.S.40 four miles east of Springfield will be closed for repairs beginning Monday. Friday, a portion of the bridge deck fell out. The Highway Department said west-bound traffic will be routed over one of the east-bound lanes.

Even Chance Is Predicted For Rail Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's a 50-50 chance a railroad contract settlement can be reached without a strike, the nation's top rail labor official says.

"We are not looking for a strike," said George E. Leighty Friday. "We're trying to settle this thing. If there is a strike it will be forced on us by the railroads." Leighty is chairman of the Railway Labor Executives Assn.

He said any railway work stoppage would not be likely to come before May 1.

Leighty said rail unions are sending questionnaires to all recognized labor arbitrators who might be called on to serve on an emergency board named by the White House in the contract dispute.

The questionnaires, he said, are designed to find out if potential arbitrators have been "brainwashed" by what he called a multimillion dollar propaganda campaign by railroads on the "featherbedding" issue.

The current dispute is mainly over wage rates and rules changes.

Railroads have charged there is rampant featherbedding enforced by the union. Featherbedding means requiring payment to employes for work not needed or in some cases for merely standing by doing nothing.

Leighty said the questionnaires asked potential arbitrators if they believe rail workers are overpaid; paid for work not performed; whether state laws require unneeded overloading of payrolls; whether railroads are in desperate financial straits.

None of these things are true, Leighty said. But because of nationwide advertising by the railroads, he added, "seven out of 10 Americans mistakenly believe they are true."

Twentieth Century-Fox suspended production after Miss Remick, 23, flew home. The studio said it does not know when it will resume shooting. The company estimated each day of the shutdown would cost about $30,000.

Workers Laid Off To Get Vacation Pay

CINCINNATI (AP) — General Electric Co. officials have decided to give vacation pay to eligible workers being laid off at the Evendale jet engine plant.

A spokesman said Friday two weeks pay will go to those among 250 union and 550 non-union members who qualify for vacation under company rules.

Leaders of employe members of the Machinists' and United Auto Workers Unions criticized the company last Thursday, saying members would not get 1960 vacation money because they are being laid off Dec. 21 in a work cutback.

But non-union workers would get vacation money, the union officials said, because they would be retained until Jan. 1 or later.

He reported the location and a rescue plane from the U.S. Air Force base near here was ordered out. Dense fog closed in, however, and prevented a search.

Base officials said patrols will be sent out Sunday to see if the craft is in trouble.

Why Teen-Age Girls Don't Eat Properly

A medical authority says they'd rather starve than be "fat"; what's worse, their parents don't know how to set them right

by W. W. BAUER, M.D. Director of Health Education, American Medical Association

SHE LIVED next door to us. Her name was Anne. As a child she was robust and chubby, and had lovely golden curls. In her adolescence, though, she was unattractively thin. One day I asked: "Anne, what did you have for breakfast this morning?"

"I didn't have any breakfast."

"Well, then," I asked, "what did you have for breakfast yesterday morning?"

"I didn't have any breakfast yesterday either."

"Okay," I insisted, "and when did you have breakfast?"

"I can't remember."

"Well, what did you have for lunch at school?"

"I took a tuna-fish sandwich and an orange, and I bought a bottle of milk at school."

I was just about to say that that wasn't a bad lunch, when she added, "I ate half the sandwich and drank some of the milk."

"What about the orange?" I demanded.

"Oh," she answered, "that's in my locker at school."

Since I am a hard man to discourage, I pursued the subject of her evening meal.

"We-ell," she said, "I didn't like what we had for supper, so I made an excuse about doing some homework, and I—I guess I didn't eat very much of anything."

This last remark will not surprise parents or nutrition experts. They know that most adolescent girls do not eat enough, or choose their foods wisely enough, to assure good nutrition. Growing boys, who are always hungry, do much better, perhaps because they will eat anything that won't bite them.

Why should young girls develop unsatisfactory food habits?

The main reason is that young girls would rather starve than get "fat"! Slenderness, often to the point of emaciation, is a must with them. It is no use telling them that they are healthier—and better looking—at normal weight. Fashion, custom, and above all, the approval of their own age group are more important than any health considerations. Who wants to be a "square" with her own set?

ANOTHER REASON why the teen-age girl does not eat properly is that the adult approach to the problem is wrong. "Eat carrots because they are good for you," says mother ad nauseam. Or worse, "How many times do I have to tell you—eat those carrots." If there is any mule in the child's disposition, this approach is sure to bring it into action.

Too much bullying at the table creates unnecessary rebellion toward food. We talk too much about rigid dietary "musts" and not enough about how good-to-eat a sensible diet can be. We are too negative, especially in relation to sweets and soft drinks, which young people take to like ducks to water. It's no use to tell any young person not to have sweets and soft drinks. Fruits, vegetables, whole-grain cereals, vitamins, and minerals just don't have the appeal of a cheeseburger or a thick malted milk. And what's wrong with popcorn, peanuts, hot dogs, and ice cream?

The fact is, all these foods are good and useful—in their places. The problem is to have them used by youngsters in proper relationship to other foods. But this balance can be achieved only by parents who understand psychology as well as nutrition.

My judgment, based on long and sympathetic contact with young people, is that the right approach is to let them have the facts, then work out their own conclusions. For example, they should be given six basic tips in good nutrition:

Eat a good breakfast; you need morning energy for good work.

There are many varieties of food, so choose the kind you like among fruits, vegetables, meats, fish, eggs, and other important foods.

Go easy on sweets; no need to cut them out, but don't substitute them for more essential foods.

Take enough time to enjoy your meals.

Put worries and problems aside while you eat; keep mealtimes happy.

Learn to like as many varieties of food as possible to make sensible eating fun.

But don't din your ideas about diet into their ears. If we give young people a scientific basis for good dietary practice, they'll pick them up themselves without nagging.

After all, young people are eager to look well. They want to be liked and to be popular. Who doesn't? Help them learn that good health, including good nutrition, is an aid toward this goal, and they will act like anybody else at any age.

It all adds up to simple but often-overlooked principles. You have to like people; you have to have confidence in people; you have to respect the personality of the individual—if you expect to help and to influence his conduct, even for his own good.

Substitute "youth" in the above sentence for "people," and I believe you have the answer, not only to the question as to why adolescent girls don't eat more sensibly, but to many other questions about the younger generation.

CAN MAN

An interview with
BRIG. GEN. DONALD D. FLICKINGER, USAF
by James C. G. Conniff

ABOUT THE LAUNCHING of a manned satellite, Washington opinion is firm on two counts: 1) we will orbit a man successfully by 1961, but 2) the Reds will probably beat us to it!

By much? Two months to nearly two years.

How come? The Soviets will risk killing their astronaut rather than let the U. S. be first to put a man in space. This coldly utilitarian mentality of the Russians forces on us the need to answer quickly—and correctly—some sharp questions. Thanks to jet fighters and space probes, along with atomic-submarine cruises, we already have the answers to many puzzles about space travel.

But there is one question nobody can really answer till an American or Russian astronaut does the honors: can flesh and blood, can man's mind and emotions, survive in space?

To learn the odds, FAMILY WEEKLY sent me to Washington to interview Brig. Gen. Donald D. Flickinger, USAF-(MC). General Flickinger is vice chairman of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's special committee on life sciences. He is also in charge of bioastronautics (the "human factors" in space medicine) for the Air Research and Development Command at Andrews Air Force Base near the capital.

A surgeon and, at 51, an experienced pilot, Don Flickinger was the Air Force expert on the three-man interservice medical team which selected our seven Project Mercury astronauts from 110 volunteers. With Army and Navy colleagues, the general now has the crucial task of grooming the winners for their big adventure.

Q. Frankly, General Flickinger, what chance have these men of coming back alive?

A. They will be in a far better position to accomplish their mission—and live to repeat it—than they are in any of the high-performance jet aircraft they have all flown as career test pilots.

Q. Is this because they are superior specimens, or because the space capsule itself will be so thoroughly tested?

A. Both. Our astronaut trainees are superior people, physically and mentally. Before we send them up we will have fully conditioned them to handle and survive anything that will come their way at the altitudes now envisioned. They will carry no space first-aid kits. They will be able to perform their duties, normally and naturally, under all circumstances. On top of that, we will give the capsule itself, with all its equipment, a series of maximum-demand laboratory tests.

Q. When you say the astronaut will perform "normally and naturally," General, do you mean he will not be drugged in any way?

A. Apart from wanting to make clear that we plan to have him at the peak of mental and physical form, that is exactly what I mean.

Q. But hasn't aeromedical research found that a certain "pep pill" effectively combats boredom from prolonged, repetitive tasks—like those in a space capsule—without a letdown later?

A. Yes, but for what we call these "first-generation" space flights, such a compound is unnecessary for two reasons. First, our astronaut is going to be too busy to grow bored or drowsy. When he's not talking to us, we'll be talking to him. Secondly, in line with our plan to let him make only two or three circuits of the earth at 90 minutes each, he won't be up there long enough to need drugs.

Q. What about other narcotic aids for the physical and mental strain of being rocket-driven into orbit at 18,000 m.p.h. — like tranquilizers, antinausea drugs, bowel-and-bladder inhibitors, and such?

A. We will use none of them. Tranquilizers would dull alertness, slow split-second responses, and imperil man, machine, and mission. Against the danger of nausea and dizziness from concentrated G-forces at launching followed by a sudden eerie weightlessness in orbit, we are going to build into the capsule its own controls to prevent excessive tumbling.

We are also installing tested

REALLY SURVIVE IN SPACE?

In this exclusive interview, an Air Force expert gives straightforward answers to the toughest questions about human space travel restraints to keep the astronaut from being disoriented by the "floating-in-air" effects of zero gravity. Bodily excretory problems will be dealt with by a blend of conscious preconditioning and diet, for the most part, rather than by reliance on drugs.

Q.* How can you be sure these types of "conditioning" will work at altitudes where man has never been?

A. My answer to that is not intended to detract one iota from the courage of our astronauts or the calculated adventure in store for them. It is a fact, however, that the drama of our national effort to orbit an American airman and bring him back safely makes people forget that we have already encountered practically every difficulty space presents in 1) high-altitude balloon flights and 2) high-performance jet aircraft. Through manned exploratory flights in rocket ships like the X-15, we expect to know even more about the total space-flight picture before orbiting a man.

Q.* Does that mean we've licked the radiation problem in space?

A. Unfortunately, no. We are gaining new data on the nature and extent of radiation in space almost daily, but anti radiation shielding of astronauts —and of instruments, too—will probably be a space-medicine headache for some time. The answer to your basic question about man's ability to survive in space must therefore be that, as of this moment, he cannot—mainly because of 1) severe limits on the length of time he can safely be exposed to radiation of whatever intensity, 2) the present state and prospects of shielding technology, and 3) our imperfect knowledge of the kinds and degree of radiation to be found there.

However, while all this is regrettably true of higher altitudes and longer trips, what we anticipate for these first flights is something quite different. The estimated 120-150-mile level where our early astronauts will orbit is not saturated with lethal radiation, as outer space may prove to be. Furthermore, the brief duration of the flights (3-18 hours) will result in exposure at the rate of only 45 or so milliroentgens per 48-hour period. Compare this with a single chest X ray, where you get 1,200-1,500 milliroentgens, or with the 300 milliroentgens a week permitted in industry.

Q.* Are you saying, General, that in effect these "orbital altitudes" of first-generation space flight are not really outer space but just part of the upper atmosphere?

A. Not at all. For all practical purposes, the altitude of our manned satellite will be space, period. Except for intensity of radiation, I assure you as a scientist that it has otherwise the same phenomena as outer space or deep space: no atmosphere, intense darkness, extreme temperatures, utter silence, zero gravity, and so on.

Q.* But even at these altitudes and with all your conditioning, won't the first astronaut have to learn the hard way to survive the "break-off phenomenon"?

A. By this you mean panic and disorientation that are supposed to result from being so far above one's home planet in an absolutely weightless state for a prolonged period—especially after having briefly weighed many times more than normal during launch acceleration. It sounds like a one-two punch of formidable dimensions, I agree, but as for its destructive or unbalancing effect on the mind, we in astromedicine are no longer worried about it.

Our reasons include 1) the reassuring data obtained from more and more extended research into human weightlessness during zero-gravity maneuvers in conventional aircraft, 2) experience in supersonic jets, and 3) perhaps most of all, our intention never to give the astronaut an idle moment to start thinking about how high up and feather-light he is.

Q.* But with his internal organs also weightless, along with his food and drink, how will he swallow and keep nourishment down?

A. Again, it will be a matter of careful conditioning assisted by conscious nervous and muscular control over the swallowing mechanism—plus practice in guarding against involuntary regurgitation. Even a belch, in the weightless state, could bring up food particles and cause choking. It will be a rigorous self-discipline, reinforced by tubed-food-paste feeders and aesthetic variety of menu. Long before attempting to put an American in orbit, we doctors will have worked out with the astronauts themselves every last possible hitch in this area, and gotten proof that it's been licked. We are practically at that point now.

Q.* What about air supply and disposal of waste gases in a pressurized space capsule?

A. We have learned a good deal about this particular problem right here on earth, from long submerged voyages by atomic submarines. They had only the air they took down with them and, through secret reprocessing techniques, used it over and over. The astronaut will have to do the same.

His equipment will also have to "wash" or absorb possibly toxic concentrations of trace gases that would not even be noticed in less confined quarters. But we have solved all such problems.

Q.* Suppose a meteorite punctures the space capsule?

A. The threat of this is remote. If it did happen, our man is wearing a full-pressure suit designed to keep him alive and in control till he can effect re-entry.

Q.* Is there danger of sending the astronaut into space forever by launching error?

A. Hardly. We will have attained such precision in rocketry as to make this hazard negligible.

Q.* But suppose it did happen?

A. We would detect it long before orbital altitude was reached—or rather, exceeded. In such a crisis, we have means of freeing the astronaut and getting him back down safely.

Q.* What if the rocket misfires or explodes at launch or before it can get the man-capsule into orbit?

A. There is a sub-rocket mounted on a pylon above the capsule for just such a possibility. The astronaut can fire it on his own or at our signal, depending on who first realizes there is trouble. If the astronaut for some reason cannot respond, we can fire it for him from the ground. The escape device will hurl the capsule free and shoot it high enough for safe descent by parachute. The sub-rocket itself breaks away at a prearranged altitude to avoid encumbering the capsule.

Q.* Won't the physical buffeting at launch knock out even a toughened astronaut?

A. We are sure it won't because right now we are putting these men through grueling centrifuge, spin-table, and high-speed pneumatic "jumping-jack" tests that demand of them everything the actual launch will demand. They are standing it just fine.

Q.* Haven't there been some less than encouraging psychological reactions to your prolonged confinement, monotony, heat-endurance, total-darkness, and absolute-silence tests?

A. In earlier investigations, there were—hallucinations, anxiety, claustrophobia, irrational hostility—that sort of thing. But our much more refined and intensive studies of the 110 volunteers taught us what we need to know for the elimination of people susceptible to these weaknesses, and for reducing to near-zero the risk of emotional failure in our chosen astronauts.

Q.* If for some unforeseeable reason something did go wrong with an astronaut's mind, mightn't he refuse to come down at all?

A. You may be absolutely certain that no matter what happens, we can in any given 10- 12-minute period bring man and machine safely to earth.

Q.* General, what danger is there of a manned space capsule colliding with one of the satellites already up?

A. We know their altitudes and orbits. Avoiding such disastrous contact is well within our capability.

Q.* Finally, there is no question in your mind, General, that we can, and will, solve these problems?

A. No question whatever. We are committed to space, irrevocably. All the evidence indicates that it is a medium in which we can not only survive but in time move freely to enrich human knowledge.

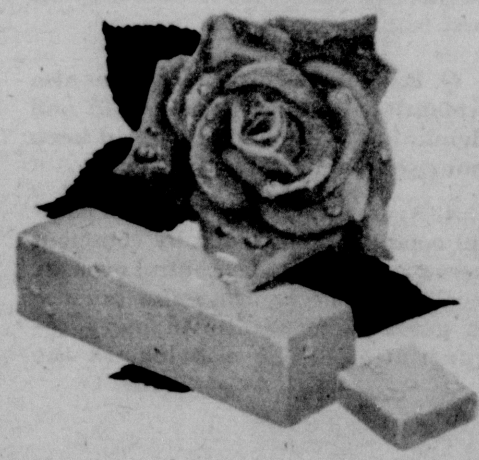

NEW Flavor-Bloomed PARKAY

New KRAFT discovery creates first margarine with full-bloomed flavor! You taste the full delicate flavor as never before. You even see the delicious difference. Like the high-priced spread, it's more velvety, less shiny.

MOST MARGARINES unfold their flavor more slowly than the high-priced spread. They have a tighter texture, look more glossy, keep more of their flavor locked in—like a bud that never blooms. That's why some people think the flavor of their present margarine tastes "incomplete." Such margarines lack the fast, full flavor release that makes a spread truly delicious.

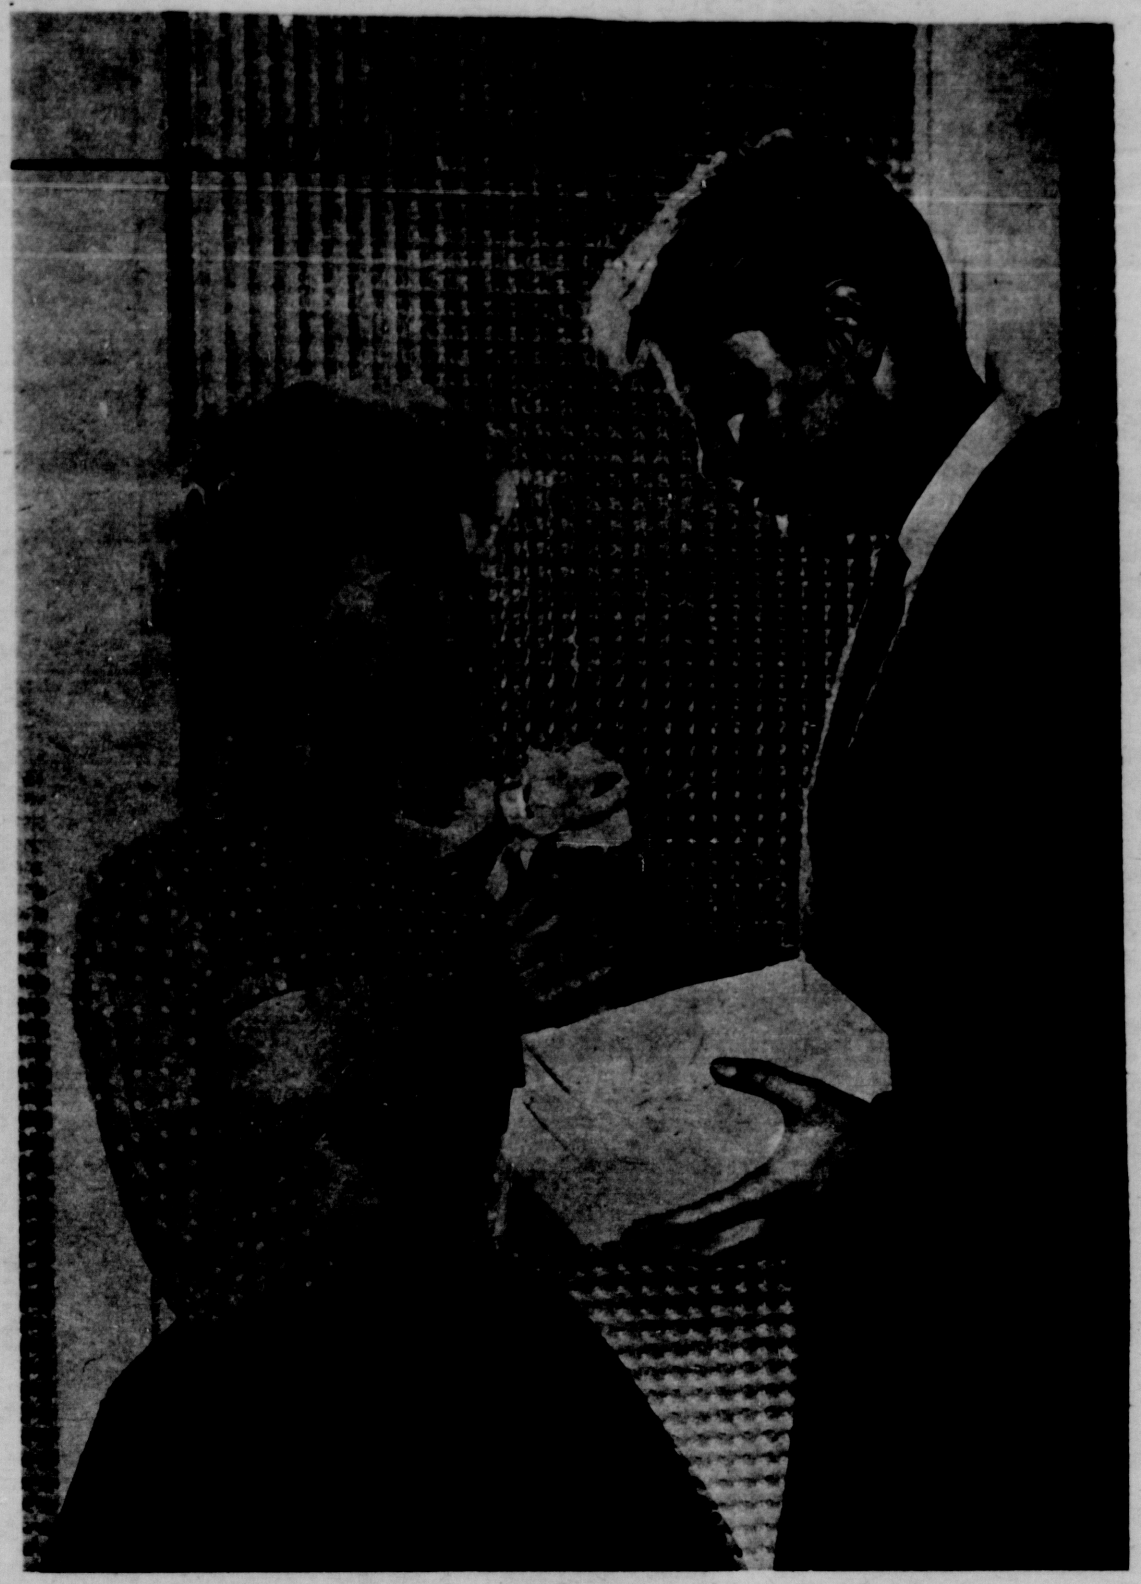

FLAVOR-BLOOMED PARKAY is made a new way, so that all its sweetness and fullness of flavor "bursts open" on the tongue . . . instantly unfolding the most delicious taste ever achieved in a spread. You'll notice a new bloom and delicacy of appearance, too—more velvety, less shiny. In looks, texture and taste, new Parkay is more than a match for the high-priced spread.

When I go on a date

by SANDRA DEE

I KEEP GETTING letters from girls my own age asking for help with their dating problems. Frankly, at 17, I'm just getting over my own awkwardness with boys. I must confess it took a number of painful mistakes until I learned what can turn an uncomfortable evening into an unforgettable one. But I ended up with a set of rules that have worked wonderfully for me. So I asked Troy Donahue, my costar in "A Summer Place," to help me illustrate them for you.

I dress for the occasion. The way I do this is to ask my date in advance where we are going. Also, I try to be ready on time, but this isn't easy because I always seem to be late.

I always introduce my date to Mother. It's not only polite, but she's had more experience with people than I, and I respect her judgment of boys.

I give the boy a chance to talk and tell me what he thinks about movies, music, anything. But I have my own opinions, too, and I'm not ashamed of airing them.

When he takes me out to dinner, I consider how much he can afford. A good rule is to ask him to suggest something from the menu.

I show appreciation for a pleasant evening by telling him I've had a good time. I don't absolutely feel it's necessary to throw in a kiss, too. I save that for people I like in a very special way.

CHRISTMAS BREADS

GOOD FOR FREEZING

TO PREPARE: 1 HR. TO BAKE: 25-30 MIN.
(allow about 3 hrs. for rising)

2 pkgs. active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water (110°F to 115°F)
½ cup sugar
½ cup butter, softened
2½ teaspoons salt
1 cup milk, scalded (just until a thin film appears)
5½ cups sifted flour
2 eggs, well beaten
2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
¼ teaspoon almond extract

1. Soften yeast in water; let stand 10 min.

2. Meanwhile, put the sugar, butter, and salt into a large bowl. Immediately pour scalded milk over ingredients in bowl.

3. When lukewarm, blend in 1 cup of the flour, beating until smooth. Stir softened yeast and add, mixing well. Add about one-half the flour to yeast mixture and beat until very smooth. Beat in the eggs, lemon peel, and almond extract.

4. Beat in enough of the remaining flour to make a soft dough. Turn dough onto a lightly floured surface and knead 5 to 8 min. Form dough into a large ball and place in a greased deep bowl. Turn dough to bring greased surface to top. Cover with waxed paper and towel and let stand in a warm place (about 80°F) until dough is doubled, about 2 hrs.

5. Punch down dough with fist. Turn out onto lightly floured surface. Divide dough into 2 equal portions. Use one portion for wreath and one for loaf.

For Wreath—Rinse and drain ¾ cup dark seedless raisins. Roll one-half of dough into a 14x9-in. rectangle. Spread with 1 tablespoon melted butter. Mix ½ cup firmly packed brown sugar, ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon, ½ cup diced assorted candied fruits, and the raisins; sprinkle evenly over dough. Beginning with the longer side, roll dough tightly; press edges to seal. Place roll, sealed edge down, on a lightly greased baking sheet. Pull ends together to form a ring, pressing slightly to seal ends. With scissors, snip at 1-in. intervals through ring almost to center. Turn each cut section on its side. Brush with 1 tablespoon melted butter. Cover with waxed paper and towel; let rise in a warm place about 30 min., or until it is doubled. Bake at 375°F about 25 min., or until golden brown. Drizzle with Confectioners' Sugar Glaze while hot.

For Confectioners' Sugar Glaze—Put 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar into a bowl. Blend in ½ teaspoon vanilla extract, ⅛ teaspoon almond extract, and 1 tablespoon cream or milk.

For Loaf—Melt ¼ cup butter. Mix together ¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar, 2 tablespoons light corn sirup, 2 tablespoons of the melted butter, and 1 teaspoon water in the bottom of a well-greased 9½x5¼x2¾-in. loaf pan. Rinse and drain ¾ cup golden raisins. Roll other one-half of dough into a 14x9-in. rectangle. Spread with 1 tablespoon of melted butter and sprinkle with a mixture of ½ cup firmly packed brown sugar, ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon, and the raisins. Beginning with the shorter side, roll dough tightly. Cut roll into ¾-in. slices; dip cut sides into remaining melted butter. Place slices cut sides together in the loaf pan. Cover with waxed paper and towel and let rise in a warm place about 45 min., or until doubled. Bake at 350°F about 30 min., or until golden brown. Immediately turn out of pan. Serve warm.

FRUIT BREAD, MILAN STYLE

GOOD FOR FREEZING

TO PREPARE. 35 MIN. TO BAKE: 40-45 MIN.
(allow about 4½ hrs. for rising)

1 pkg. active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water (110°F to 115°F)
1 cup butter, melted
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups sifted flour
½ cup milk, scalded and cooled to lukewarm
2 eggs
4 egg yolks
3½ cups sifted flour
1 cup dark seedless raisins
¾ cup chopped citron
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon cold water

1. Soften yeast in water; let stand 10 min.

2. Pour melted butter into large bowl of electric mixer. Add the sugar and salt gradually, beating well after each addition.

3. Beating thoroughly after each addition, alternately add 2 cups sifted flour in thirds and lukewarm milk in halves to the butter mixture. Add softened yeast and beat well.

4. Combine eggs and egg yolks and beat until thick and piled softly. Add the beaten eggs all at one time to yeast mixture and beat well. Beating thoroughly after each addition, gradually add the 3½ cups flour. Stir in raisins and citron.

5. Sift ¼ cup flour over a pastry cloth or board. Turn dough onto floured surface, cover with waxed paper, and let stand 10 min.

6. Sift ¼ cup flour over dough. Pull dough from edges toward center until flour is worked in. Put dough into a greased large bowl, grease top of dough, and cover with waxed paper and a towel. Let stand in a warm place (about 80°F) about 2½ hrs.

7. Pull edges of dough into center gently punching down dough. Let rise in a warm place about 1 hr.

8. Divide dough into halves and shape each half into a round loaf. Put each loaf into a well-greased 8-in. round pan. Brush surfaces generously with a mixture of slightly beaten egg and water. Cover with waxed paper and towel. Let rise in a warm place, about 1 hr.

TURBAN CAKE

GOOD FOR FREEZING

TO PREPARE: 25 MIN. TO BAKE: 40-45 MIN.

2¼ cups sifted flour
2¼ teaspoons baking powder
½ cup butter
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
½ cup sugar
4 egg yolks, well beaten (until thick and lemon colored)
¾ cup milk
4 egg whites
½ cup sugar

1. Butter a 2-qt. fluted tube mold.

2. Sift the flour and baking powder together.

3. Cream butter, lemon peel, and vanilla extract together until butter is softened. Add ½ cup sugar gradually, creaming until fluffy after each addition. Add the beaten egg yolks in thirds, beating well after each addition.

4. Beating only until smooth after each addition, alternately add dry ingredients in fourths, milk in thirds to creamed mixture. Beat only until smooth (do not overbeat).

5. Using clean beater, beat the egg whites until frothy. Add ½ cup sugar gradually, beating well after each addition. Beat until rounded peaks are formed and egg whites do not slide when bowl is partially inverted. Gently fold into batter; turn into mold.

6. Bake at 350°F 40 to 45 min., or until cake surface springs back when lightly touched.

7. Invert pan on tube end and let cake hang in pan 1 hr. If cake is higher than tube, invert between two cooling racks so top of cake does not touch any surface. Loosen from pan by running a paring knife or small spatula carefully around tube and around edge of cake. Serve slightly warm, if desired. Sift confectioners' sugar generously over cake.

8 to 10 servings

POPPY-SEED CAKE

Follow recipe for Turban Cake. Just before first addition of dry ingredients, blend in ⅓ cup (about 1½ oz.) poppy seed, very finely ground. (Poppy seed may be ground in an electric blender.)

CHOCOLATE-GLAZED CAKE

Follow recipe for Turban Cake. Partially melt ¼ lb. semisweet candymaking chocolate for dipping and ¼ cup butter over simmering water, being careful not to overheat. Remove from the simmering water and stir until chocolate is completely melted. Quickly spread over the cake while mixture is still warm. Let chocolate cool completely before serving.

FILLED DANISH COFFEE CAKE

GOOD FOR FREEZING

TO PREPARE: 45 MIN. TO BAKE: 25-30 MIN.
(allow time for chilling and rising)

¼ cup sifted flour
¾ cup butter
1 pkg. active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water (110°F to 115°F)
1 egg
¾ cup milk
3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups sifted flour
1½ cups water
1½ cups (about ½ lb.) golden raisins
¼ cup butter
1 teaspoon ground cardamom
2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
2 to 3 tablespoons cream
Egg, slightly beaten
½ cup finely chopped blanched almonds
½ cup sugar

1. Measure ¼ cup sifted flour into a bowl. Cut in ¾ cup butter with pastry blender or two knives until well blended. Shape mixture into a ball and place on a long length of waxed paper. Cover with another long length of waxed paper and roll into a 10x4-in. rectangle. Chill.

2. Soften the yeast in the warm water. Let stand 10 min.

3. Beat egg until it is thick and piled softly. Stir in the milk, sugar, and salt until sugar is dissolved. Blend in 1 cup sifted flour, beating until smooth. Stir softened yeast and add, mixing well.

4. Add about 1 cup of the flour to the yeast mixture and beat until very smooth. Then beat in enough remaining flour to make a dough which leaves sides of bowl. Turn dough onto a lightly floured surface and roll into a 12-in. square.

5. Remove chilled flour-butter mixture from refrigerator, peel off waxed paper, and place in the center of the dough. Fold two sides of dough over flour-butter mixture so that sides overlap in center. Turn dough one-quarter way around and roll out again into a 12-in. square. Repeat the folding and rolling two more times, turning dough one-quarter way around each time. Wrap dough in waxed paper. Chill about 1 hr.

6. Bring 1½ cups water to boiling in a saucepan. Add the raisins and again bring to boiling. Pour off water and drain raisins on absorbent paper. Set aside.

7. Cream butter and cardamom together until butter is softened. Add the confectioners' sugar gradually, creaming until well blended after each addition. Blend in the cream until mixture is of spreading consistency. Mix in raisins; set aside.

8. Remove chilled dough from refrigerator and roll into a 24x12-in. rectangle. Cut lengthwise with a sharp knife into two 24x6-in. strips. Spread each strip with one-half of the raisin filling. Starting with the longer side of dough, roll up each strip tightly and pinch edge to seal. Carefully stretch dough into a roll 30 in. long, being careful not to break dough.

9. Transfer rolls to two greased baking sheets. Form into pretzel shape by overlapping ends so that they touch long side of roll. Gently flatten dough to ½-in. thickness. Brush with slightly beaten egg. Sprinkle with a mixture of the almonds and sugar. Cover with waxed paper and a clean towel. Let rise in a warm place until doubled.

10. Bake at 375°F 25 to 30 min., or until lightly browned. 2 coffee cakes

A Christmas Stocking to Make

Suzie Snider

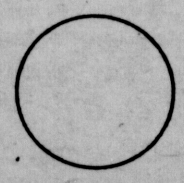

This is a stocking for you to make for Santa to fill. You will need a piece of red felt 18 inches square, some smaller pieces of green and white felt for decorations, wrapping ribbon, some cotton, and a bell. Cut the red felt square in half. Next draw a stocking on one of the halves and pin both halves together. Now cut out the stocking. Puncture holes around the edge except at the top and thread the ribbon through, tying it at the back and leaving a loop. With glue, attach the cotton around the top. From the green and white felt cut out the designs and glue them to the stocking. You can sew sequins to the decorations before gluing them on. Sew the bell at the toe, and your Christmas stocking is ready.

A smart wife is one who knows how to retie the Christmas package her husband has hidden from her.
—O. A. Battista

For nearly an hour the route clerk of an automobile club carefully went over travel maps and tour books with a young man planning a trip to Florida. "Now, you're sure these routes you've advised are heavily traveled?" he asked for the tenth time.

"Yes, they are."

"Well, they'd better be," he replied threateningly. "I'm hitchhiking!"

The weary husband was met at the door with sad news. "We'll have to go out for dinner," his wife explained cheerily. "I couldn't prepare anything because the electricity went off."

"Electricity?" the husband growled. "We have a gas range!"

"I know that," she replied, "but we have an electric can opener!"

NEW FACES

by JOSEPH STOCKER

They come to this Los Angeles businessman with hooknoses, receding chins, and scars; he dips into his wallet to right nature's errors

EVERY ONCE in a while somebody bounces into the office of Stanley S. Slotkin, a Los Angeles businessman, and asks, "How do you like my new nose?" or, "What do you think of my new chin?" The questions may sound strange—but not to Slotkin. It was he who made the new features possible.

In the past dozen years, Slotkin has arranged and financed—at least partially—about 1,500 operations involving plastic surgery. It's his favorite hobby and a godsend to the people whose lives have been transformed along with their appearance. They come to Slotkin with hooknoses, receding chins, harelips, conspicuous birthmarks, pockmarks, and acne scars. Some have no money for an operation; some have a little but not enough. It doesn't matter. If plastic surgery can help them, Slotkin helps pay whatever bills have to be paid.

His reward? Nothing but satisfaction—the kind that comes from cases like that of eight-year-old Joe.

When Slotkin first knew him, Joe was a very unhappy kid because his ears stuck out. The boys called him "Elephant Ears" or "Airplane Wings."

The reaction in Joe was one of excessive belligerence. He picked fights and became the school outlaw.

Joe's parents couldn't afford the operation to straighten his ears, but they heard about Stanley Slotkin. He agreed to underwrite the surgery.

Ten days after the operation, when Joe went back to school, his ears lay neatly against the sides of his head.

Slotkin saw him a few days later. "Well Joe," he asked, "what happened at school?"

"Nothing," said Joe.

"Nothing at all?"

"Nope. Well, yes, something happened. I was playing with the boys, and the girls came over and talked to me."

Those few words revealed that Joe was an outlaw no longer. He had been given what he needed—acceptance.

Stanley Slotkin, a lean, intense businessman of 52, was led into his hobby by a Christmas happenstance in the mid-1940s. He had a secretary named Betty—an efficient but homely girl who was introverted and unhappy. One day Slotkin asked, "Betty, what would you like for Christmas?" The reply jolted him.

"Mr. Slotkin, I'd like a new face!"

Only then did Slotkin fully realize how unattractive Betty was. He decided, insofar as it lay within his power and the power of medical science, to give her what she wanted for Christmas.

After the operation, Slotkin and his wife brought Betty into their home for her convalescence. When she was fully recovered, they took her to a hairdresser and then to a dress shop. With some new clothes, her new hairdo, and especially her new face, Betty was radiantly attractive. Slotkin lost a secretary when Betty married a few months later, but he gained a philanthropy.

Each morning at 11 o'clock, he interviews anybody who wants to see him about getting a new face. Of the 1,500 transformations Stanley Slotkin has made possible, which is his favorite? "The one I did yesterday," he says.

Slotkin doesn't get to see all the people he has given new faces. Some of his "patients" come to his office to say thanks, but many others cannot trust themselves to hold their emotions in check, and they express their gratitude in letters. It doesn't matter to him whether he receives expressions of gratitude from people he has helped.

"They don't have to thank me," he says. "I'm just an intermediary between God and the doctor."

The above photos strikingly illustrate what plastic surgery can do to give people a new lease on life. The hero behind many such miracles is Stanley S. Slotkin (top picture) who has financed 1,500 of these operations in the past 12 years.

A Time for Giving

THE LETTERS he had prayed for would be at the post office, the Rev. Peter Morgan assured himself, as he pulled on the muddy boots he had worn since coming to Curachos. His pleas for contributions had been sent two weeks ago, but he had not received one reply. Now it was Christmas Eve, time to pick up the last mail from the store in the valley.

From his room behind the little mission on the mountainside, Peter Morgan looked out on the scattered shacks that housed the 36 families of his congregation. The rain that had been falling steadily for four months had washed away all other signs of life. The fields were abandoned, and the roads had turned to rivers of mud.

Four months ago, Peter hadn't realized it was possible for anyone to live in such poverty. The rain had destroyed the crops and, with no crops, the natives had to live on roots and bark and crawling things. Peter knew the little settlement of South American Indians could exist no longer without help. He couldn't understand how they had gone on as long as they had.

As he walked to Diego's store, rivulets of water found their way through the splits in his raincoat and the mud pulled at his sturdy boots.

There would be many letters today, the young minister told himself for the hundredth time. He had prayed the entire night. God couldn't fail to send the contributions his little congregation needed so badly.

Until now, Peter had felt sure the money would come. His sermon last Sunday was entitled "A Time for Giving." He had labored over it for days and, even with his halting Spanish, he felt it made the desired impression. He proudly told how Christians came to the aid of their needy brethren at Christmas. This would happen in Curachos, he promised the Indians. There could be none more needy than they.

Peter saw Diego on the porch of his store, which was also the local post office. Diego was not a native of the valley. He was Spanish, not Indian, he had announced the first time they met. Diego had been educated on the coast and even spoke a little English as proof. He had not been encouraging when the young minister arrived a few months earlier.

"You think you bring the word of God to these heathen, but you will find they listen to you only when you have something to give," Diego warned. "In their hearts, these people keep the old ways. Up in the mountains, sacrifices to the gods still go on. They will turn on you when your purse is empty."

THESE WORDS echoed through Peter's memory as he approached the store. If no money came today, what would the people do? It was too late to think about that now. His sermon last week made it clear they could expect help—help that had not yet arrived.

"Hola, Señor Morgan," Diego shouted as Peter reached the store. "A big day, eh? Christmas Eve."

"Yes, a big day," Peter agreed. "I hope to see you at our services tomorrow." Diego did not attend church. He spent his free time drinking a concoction he distilled in back of the store.

"I will try," he lied. "I may have . . . how you say . . . other plans? Good news for you, though. Three letters from the States."

He handed the minister the letters. With hands trembling, Peter opened the first. A clothing firm in Chicago announced a "Post-Christmas Sale" on clerical suits and coats. The second was a Christmas card from a classmate. Peter had no family to write to him.

The feminine handwriting on the third letter was unfamiliar, but the return address filled Peter with hope. The Bradleys were a wealthy old Boston family. Carefully opening the envelope to avoid tearing a check, Peter removed two written pages. A five-dollar bill was attached with a paper clip.

The scrawled message from Mrs. Bradley contained conventional Christmas greetings, and a few remarks about the many financial obligations one faced at this time of year.

"I notice your raincoat is in very unhappy condition, mi amigo," said Diego, eyeing the bill. "It is not proper that a man in your position go about in crummy coat. Your fine boots should have a good companion. As it happens, I have a fine raincoat special on sale for you, only 12 dollar."

"I haven't got 12 dollars," murmured Peter, thinking of the futility of dividing five dollars among so many.

"A five-dollar down payment, rest when-I-catch-you deal would be O.K.," Diego said through a toothy grin. "After all, who can I trust more?"

"Sorry," Peter replied, shoving the mail into his pocket. "I must have good boots, but I can do without a new coat."

As he was about to leave, Diego put a hand on his arm. The little storekeeper no longer smiled. "There is something strange going on in this valley, something very strange."

Peter studied the man, who was more serious than he had ever seen him. Perhaps even afraid, Peter thought.

"I am not one of them," Diego emphasized, "so I do not know their secrets. But the Indians are planning something. I can feel it in the air. Remember, I warned you before that these people are savages, and now that you have no money..."

"I have complete faith in my congregation," broke in Peter, as he turned and left.

ON THE WAY back to the mission, Peter doubted for the first time his calling as a missionary. He had done nothing for his people, he told himself. He had failed to keep his promise to them. They had every reason to desert him and his message.

When he came to the church, he went in and fell to his knees. He prayed not that God send money, but that He send a worthy man to take his place. His letter of resignation would be on the way to the bishop in the morning.

It was dark when he saw the torches approaching. He went to the door and watched them coming single file up the path from the valley. Ancient pagan processions came to mind as they approached. For an instant, Peter wanted to flee, but he prayed for courage.

As they came closer, Peter could see that each family had a torch carried by the head of the household. When they reached the church, they formed a half circle at the entrance. No one spoke.

Finally, old Manuel stepped forward. The torch he held sent strange shadows racing across the ancient crevices of his face. Manuel would remember the old ways and the old gods.

"We have listened to your words," the old man rasped in careful Spanish. "You have told us that at this time it is proper for Christians to give of themselves to help brothers in need. We have come to see that what you have told us is carried out."

PETER wanted to help these people more than he had ever wanted anything. What would happen to him when they found out he could not keep his promise no longer mattered. The effect it would have on their faith was all-important.

"As you know, we are not rich," continued Manuel. "But we want to be true Christians. Our gifts for our brothers are not of great worth, but they come from the heart."

Manuel bent slowly and placed a copper bracelet on the step of the church. Peter watched the head of each family come, torch in hand, to add his gift to the pile. There were rugs and baskets and woven hats and an occasional piece of jewelry. Not until many had come did Peter realize that the people of Curachos were actually giving to help others.

"But how will you live?" Peter asked when the last torch had passed.

"You are not long in the valley, my son," replied Manuel softly. "We have had great problems in the past, but we have survived. Never, back to the time of my father's father, has one of us perished for want of food. Your book tells us the Lord will provide. He sends trials to strengthen our bodies and cleanse our souls. The sun will shine again and there will be laughter."

After the last torch had disappeared down the trail, Peter added the five-dollar bill to the Christmas offerings from the people of Curachos. Then he added a pair of muddy boots, only four months old but already well worn.
